

Kansas Industrial Court Dismantled By Supreme Court

'American Plan' for Forcing Open Shop Is Upheld, However, in Case From California.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS ARE NOT VIOLATED

Destruction of Principles Industrial Court Hailed as Victory by President Green, A. F. of L.

Washington, April 13.—Thirty decisions, many of them of far-reaching effect, were handed down by the supreme court upon the opening of its spring term Monday.

Two decisions were of vital importance to labor—one favorable, the other unfavorable. Principles laid down included:

1.—Compulsory arbitration held unconstitutional in a decision which practically dismantles the famous Kansas industrial court. This upholds a principle for which labor has fought many years.

2.—The "American plan" for forcing the open shop upon as legal, although the government, backed by labor unions, opposed it as a violation of the anti-trust act.

3.—Actual losses, not "paper losses," must be used in figuring deductions for income tax purposes.

4.—State inheritance tax laws need not exempt federal inheritance taxes in calculating taxable amounts.

5.—Oil and gas produced from government land leased to private companies are taxable.

6.—Taxes take priority over labor charges in liquidating bankrupt estates.

Argument began on the case of Frank S. Myers to determine whether the president has the right to remove postmasters without the consent of the senate.

INDUSTRIAL COURT VIRTUALLY KILLED.

Washington, April 13.—The famous Kansas industrial court's most vital power, that of compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, Monday was held to be unconstitutional by the United States supreme court.

"This decision completely destroys the Kansas industrial court act," commented President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor. "While I have not had an opportunity to study this decision carefully, my impression is that it most clearly established the principle that wages, hours of employment and working conditions in private industry cannot be fixed by law. Through the decision, compulsory arbitration has received a death blow and voluntary bargaining has been left to its own devices."

INTERMYER RAPS GAGGING OF COUNT

Famous Lawyer Says U. S. Liberties Are Rapidly Disappearing Through Court Rulings.

New York, April 13.—American courts and legislative bodies are rapidly drifting toward the destruction of the traditional symbol of liberty—freedom of speech—according to Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer and nationally-known investigator.

Decrying the "gagging" of Count Nicholas Karolyi, while he was a visitor in this country, and the conviction of Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, for a strike speech he attempted to make in Paterson, N. J., Untermyer declared that at one time such "gagging" would have set the country on fire and driven from office those responsible for them.

"What a travesty upon our vaunted freedom that Count Karolyi should be able to cross our border into a monarchial government and there with impunity and without offending against its laws exercise the privilege of free speech that has been denied him here," Untermyer said.

"The truth is that while the trend of governments that make no claim to our vaunted liberty has been, since the war, toward the merciless boon and symbol of liberty trampled by freedom of speech, the attitudes of our courts and legislative bodies has been steadily drifting toward the destruction of that precious heritage. The apathy and callousness of our people in the face of this peril is the most astounding and regrettable feature of the situation."

"The Baldwin case is equally significant of this dangerous tendency of the times. A court in New Jersey has dug up a statute of 1796 as the basis upon which it has sentenced Baldwin to six months' imprisonment for peacefully insisting upon making a speech which he was not permitted to deliver or even begin in connection with the silk workers' strike in Paterson. I have no doubt that this action will be reversed on appeal, but the mere fact that such a thing could happen in the administration of our laws is ominous."

SOCIALISTS HOLD KEY TO FORMATION OF BRIAND CABINET

National Council of Party To Meet Today To Decide Whether Members May Accept Portfolios.

BY JOHN O'BRIEN.

Paris, April 13.—One hundred and five socialist deputies are toying with the immediate future of France.

Without their support, a majority government cannot be formed and partly because of an old grudge against Aristide Briand, they are unwilling to help him form a cabinet.

This explains Briand's postponement of his final decision, relative to assuming the premiership, until Wednesday. Four times since he told President Doumergue that he would try to form a government, Briand has had to visit the Elysee palace to ask for more time before presenting either a list of the new cabinet or an admission that the task of building a government is too much for him.

Socialists Against Briand.

Briand admits that he has met hostility, but slightly concealed from "certain groups." Louis Loucheur's group of 40 moderate socialists naturally opposes a capital levy and the rest of the radical-socialist financial program, as they are not unconnected with wealth. Loucheur himself is very rich. But it is the old-time socialists who are giving Briand real trouble. He could do without Loucheur's clique, but not without the 105 deputies who want an unadulterated levy to be imposed upon capital.

These men do not forget that Briand is an apostate socialist. He deserted the party when it became too radical and accepted a post in a bourgeois. For that he was excommunicated by the party which officially styles itself socialist.

Decide Question Today.

Tuesday's meeting of the national council of the socialist party will decide whether or not the party can accept responsibility for a Briand government by accepting portfolios in the cabinet. Several members of the council arrived from the provinces with the prediction that the decision would be against Briand, although the party may agree to support a cabinet of his choice.

"I must await the decision of the council," Briand said last Monday night. "Therefore, it is impossible to reply to Doumergue until Tuesday evening."

Loucheur's group would continue to support a radical cabinet under Briand's leadership, and if such a cabinet were formed without the participation of socialists or unpledged by them to enact a capital levy, Loucheur probably would accept a cabinet portfolio.

Herriot Deplores Chafe.

Herriot's radical and radical-socialist group is chafing at the domination of the regular socialists. Herriot's group is the most numerous by 25 deputies, and it is divided about supporting Briand unless the regular socialists consent to abandon their pose as holders of the parliamentary balance of power by accepting responsibility for portfolios in the projected cabinet.

If all the left parties would enter a cabinet, it would have a solid front of 329 votes against the opposition's 256.

The socialist parliamentary committee has conferred with the executive committee of the radical group, and it now seems possible that an agreement on a financial program may be reached Tuesday. The question of the cabinet will be decided then.

Insane Baboon Terrorizes Monkey Colony for 5 Hours

Finally Killed by Policeman's Bullet

New York, April 13.—Lacking the humorous sense which enables the hyena to laugh off its troubles, George Baboon, bachelor, of Cago No. 8, Central Park monkey house and star coconut pitcher of the varsity team, suddenly went insane Monday, stampeded a crowd, terrorized the monkey colony for five hours, and finally died by a policeman's bullet.

The mad monkey yanked the roof from his apartment after 30 minutes of tugging, in which the power of his 90-pound athletic frame prevailed against the planks and tore them from their nails.

At the first symptom of violence, the crowd, not divining the seriousness of the situation, drew close, believing that George Baboon was merely doing his daily dance. But when the roof finally yielded with a screech of rusty nails and the inmate of No. 8 hauled himself through the hole, the attendance dwindled suddenly and completely.

The keepers came running and so did a detail of policemen from the Garrison station nearby, with their pistols drawn. They all took position at the windows outside, and waited.

James Coyle, the head keeper, watching through a window, said he

TWO OFFICERS SLAIN BY MAN FROM AMBUSH

Third Policeman Seriously Wounded in Attempt To Capture Fugitive From Mississippi.

EFFECTED ESCAPE BY STEALING HORSE

East Tennessee Officers Join in Hunt for Slayer, Who Rode Off Toward Mountains.

Kingsport, Tenn., April 13.—Deputy Sheriff Hubert Webb and Policeman John Smith were shot to death and Policeman George Frazier was seriously wounded this afternoon by a man whose name is believed to be Wagner, a fugitive from Mississippi penal officers. Wagner escaped on a horse stolen from Dewey Nelson and at a late hour tonight had not been captured.

The dead and injured officers were members of a party of five sent to a site on the Polston river, near the old Kingsport underpass, where it was reported two men and three women were engaged in disorderly conduct.

Opens Fire on Officers.

As the officers approached the point they intercepted Wagner, according to reports brought by the injured members of the party, who opened fire from ambush on them. In a running gun fight that followed, Webb and Smith were almost instantly killed by bullets from the desperado's guns and Frazier shot down.

Disrupting the party of officers by this deadly fire, Wagner continued in flight and meeting the man Dewey Nelson on horseback, held him up at the point of a pistol, forced him to dismount, and then taking charge of the animal, galloped off in the direction of Cherry Hill, Tenn.

Communication was established with all towns and villages in this section of the state with a view of effecting arrest of the slayer, who is said to weigh about 180 pounds and was wearing a red sweater and cap when the battle started.

JELICO POLICE CHIEF IS SLAIN BY NEGRO.

Jellico, Tenn., April 13.—Tom Bowlin, chief of police of Jellico, was shot to death near the city late this afternoon by a negro, Jim Evans, who, in turn, was shot to death less than an hour later by a pursuing posse.

Chief Bowlin had gone to Evans' home to arrest him on a charge of drunkenness and of disorderly conduct, and was shot down, the negro using a high-caliber rifle and shooting the officer three times.

A deputy in the neighborhood at the time rushed to the aid of the chief and wounded the fleeing negro with a bullet from his pistol. He then raced to a local hardware store, secured a rifle and ammunition and organized a posse of citizens who came within firing distance of Evans less than two miles from Jellico, where he was shot down, about 50 bullets being fired into his body.

NEGRO MAN IS SOUGHT FOR ATTACK ON GIRL.

Bristol, Va., April 13.—Bloodhounds failed to pick up a scent early this morning for the scene of an alleged attack by a negro man upon an 11-year-old white girl and were discarded by a posse of armed citizens.

Two negroes were detained, one at Blountville, Tenn., and the other at Bluff City, but were released when the girl failed to identify them upon an alleged attack by a negro man upon an 11-year-old white girl and were discarded by a posse of armed citizens.

The girl's clothing was torn and she was choked by the negro, but managed to cry loud enough to attract passersby, as they approach the man.

About 200 men were in the mob soon after the attempted attack on the girl, and the negro was killed by his deputies and city policemen are also searching for the man.

Collins Death Lawyer Jailed Cavern Traps In Altercation Second Victim With Diplomat

Shifting Rocks Imprison Explorer for Hour Before Rescue.

Cave City, Ky., April 13.—Sand cave, claimant of the life of Floyd Collins, cave explorer, had another wayfarer trapped in its death chamber for more than an hour today.

Shifting rocks of the cave suddenly blocked the passage of the lateral leading from the shaft to Collins' body as Elmer Hays, a member of the second rescue party now trying to effect Collins' release, was about to ascend the crawl-way in the lateral.

It took his companions more than an hour of careful work to free him, precaution being taken not to knock more of the treacherous earth material loose in the tunnel. A rope was used to pull Hays to safety.

This accident resulted in an order prohibiting anyone from entering the cave by way of the lateral tunnel, which is 55 feet underground. Because of this danger, W. H. Hunt, Central City, Ky., mining engineer in charge of the work, immediately began to sink the shaft 10 feet deeper.

At the 65-foot depth another lateral will be cribbed to the natural tomb, making it large enough to provide ample space in which to work to extract the body. The additional work will require, at least another week, Mr. Hunt estimated tonight.

PROBE OF BAPTIZING THAT CAUSED DEATH OF WAR HERO BEGUN

Delaware, Ohio, April 13.—The fatal baptism that rushed William McCoy, gassed war veteran, into his grave, "is being fully investigated," Prosecutor Eugene S. Owen declared Monday night.

"It will be considered by the grand jury which meets May 8," Owen said. McCoy, bedridden with tuberculosis, was baptized in a tub of cold water, last Thursday, and died immediately. McCoy, himself, protested against the rite, according to the Rev. L. E. Rush, a Methodist pastor, who had baptized McCoy by sprinkling at the veteran's request earlier in the week.

Three persons who submerged the war hero were held by the coroner's jury as responsible for McCoy's death. They are Mrs. Bertha McCoy, 25, the widow; J. M. Wilson, the father of Mrs. McCoy, and the Rev. J. H. Pennell, a Campbellite pastor.

Hungry Tiger Frees 2 Russian Prisoners From Chinese Bandits

Harbin, March 20.—A wild Manchurian tiger saved two Russians from captivity by Chinese bandits near the station Maulin on the Chinese eastern railway recently.

The men were seized by the notorious hunhute in the woods where they were engaged in cutting firewood. They were being hustled off to the bandits' stronghold when one of the enormous tigers for which the region is noted sprang out of the underbrush. The hunhute took to their heels and the tiger followed, giving the prisoners an opportunity for escape which was quickly seized.

The tiger is said to have struck down one of the bandits.

VICTORY IS WON BY MODERNISTS IN WARM TILT

Presbyterian Minister Licensed Despite Denial of Belief in Virgin Birth and Other Miracles.

ANOTHER RECEIVED INTO FELLOWSHIP

Veteran Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin Denies Questions Are Fair to Ministerial Candidate.

New York April 13.—The controversy between modernists and fundamentalists of the Presbyterian church over the Virgin birth and other New Testament miracles broke out afresh at a meeting today of the moderators' council of the New York Presbytery, with the modernists winning in two disputes over the question.

Cameron P. Hall, an assistant minister at the Broome Street Tabernacle, was given his minister's license, and Dr. Carlos G. Fuller, of Featherbed Lane Presbyterian church, the Bronx, was allowed to retain his fellowship in the Presbytery, although both men had refused to assent to their belief in the Virgin birth and several miracles, including the raising of Lazarus from the dead.

Agree With Beliefs.

During the heated argument over Mr. Hall's qualifications, the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, of Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Thomas Guthrie Speers, of First Presbyterian church, said if Mr. Hall was not fit for the ministry, they should be put out of the presbytery, as they agreed with his beliefs. The final vote in favor of Mr. Hall was 65 to 15.

The clash over Mr. Hall, which followed the vindication of Dr. Fuller, was precipitated by a minority report of the committee on the examinations for license and ordination, in which four members moved that he be refused a license.

In it the four dissenting members charged the candidate with inability to accept the inspiration of the scriptures as taught in the Presbyterian standards, and with "failure to accept the historicity of the scripture miracles."

Denies Lazarus Miracle.

After the reading of the report, Mr. Hall was questioned by the council members. He declared his belief in the Christian church and in Christ. Asked if he believed Christ raised Lazarus from the dead, he answered:

"I believe Christ had absolute miracle power and He exercised this, but this is one of the few miracles I have to deny absolute belief in."

Mr. Hall said he did not believe in the Virgin birth as "vital and consequential to the 'vitality' of Christ." He added that he did not think the miracles so essential to belief as the spirit given in Christ's teachings.

Not Fair Question.

Dr. Coffin, in defending him, said: "I do not get up and say categorically that I believe in the Virgin birth. That is not a fair question to put to a ministerial candidate."

He said that if the Presbytery continued to subject candidates to such questions, it would keep young men from entering the ministry. Dr. Edgar W. Work, of Fourth Presbyterian church, who presided, also warned against questioning of this kind.

SOCIETY SEEKS BAN ON ANIMAL TRAPS THAT FAIL TO KILL

New York, April 12.—Plans for a nationwide campaign to check cruelty of fur-bearing animals inflicted by present trapping methods, particularly the use of the steel trap, were announced here today by a new organization called the Humane Trapping committee. The committee hopes to establish national headquarters at Washington and to obtain the enactment of state laws prohibiting the use of non-killing traps, said William K. Horton, president of the American Humane association and chairman of the new committee.

CHANGE OF VENUE WILL BE DECIDED AT BUTLER TODAY

Testimony Was Concluded Monday in Venue-Change Plea for Jones and Bloodworth.

Atlanta Graduate School of Physicians and Surgeons To Help Meet Elsas Offer Conditions.

Atlanta, April 13.—(Special.)—Presenting of evidence was concluded here late today in the venue-change case of Willie Jones and Gervis Bloodworth, under sentence of death for the murder of H. F. Underwood, in December, 1923, and arguments will begin at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The hearing is before Judge M. J. Yeomans.

The change of venue for the Taylor youths is being hard fought by both sides.

It is announced that if change of venue is not granted by Judge Yeomans appeal will be made to the state court.

The contention of the attorneys for the boys is that they cannot secure a fair and impartial trial in Taylor county, and that there is danger of mob violence.

This afternoon was consumed in the presentation of witnesses by the movants and the state, the boys' attorneys seeking to support the claims made in a petition containing 15 paragraphs, and the prosecution opposing the motion.

One of the features of the motion was the introduction of a letter signed "K. K. K." said to have been received recently by Homer Beeland, chief counsel for the youths, warning him against further efforts in the case.

Boys in Court.

Jones and Bloodworth, in charge of armed guards, reached Butler at an early hour from Columbus where they have been confined since the trouble here. Jones was suffering from a bad cold, but both of the boys were in good spirits. They have repeatedly asserted they would not pay the extreme penalty and confidentially believe today their sentence will be for life when the jury returns a verdict in the new trial.

They were sent to Columbus tonight and placed in the Muscogee county jail. They will be returned to Butler tomorrow.

Solicitor General Walker F. Flournoy, chief counsel for the state, declared his readiness Friday when the new trial was granted, for an early hearing. He was ready this morning to go ahead with the trial.

Indefinite postponement of the second trial of Jones and Bloodworth was first indicated this afternoon when Judge Yeomans released the panel of 165 jurors, subject to call by publication.

There was a small crowd present when arguments on the change of venue began, but later in the day as the hearing continued, the crowd increased in numbers and when the decision was announced, the court room was fairly well filled.

Three times have the youths been sentenced to hang and as many times have they eluded the gallows by court procedure.

History of Case.

Jones and Bloodworth were convicted in January, 1924, of the murder of Howard F. Underwood, a local salesman. It was brought out at the trial that the boys accosted the salesman, who was driving his automobile, near Butler one afternoon in December of 1923 and were picked up. According to evidence and alleged confessions of the youths, the plan for the murder had been premeditated.

Wants Lasting Cabinet.
Beneath Briand's apparent hesitation to take risks in forming a cabinet, there is a resolve to form a lasting cabinet or to abandon the task. In ordinary circumstances, a premier forms a cabinet, trusting that he will find favor with parliament, he said, "but in the present circumstances, expedients must be banished. I must know exactly whether I am going."

COOLIDGE REMARKS CABLED TO PARIS.

Washington, April 13.—The French embassy here has taken notice of the commotion in the French press over the remarks made at the white house Friday after the resignation of Premier Herriot, and to allay any criticism, has cabled to its foreign office the exact language used.

The embassy at the time felt it unnecessary to notify the French government of the remarks, considering them not unusual.

In diplomatic circles here, it is thought that the criticism aroused in France probably was due to erroneous reports.

The present difficulties are only with government finances, it was pointed out at the treasury. The people are just as prosperous as anywhere else, and business is good, it was said. The French people are not accustomed, as the British and Americans, to income taxes, and naturally resent this form of taxation, it was explained.

FITZGERALD FARMER SELLS MANY EGGS

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Poultry as a money crop is proving successful with G. F. Sheppard, who moved to this county from Carroll county last December. Mr. Sheppard purchased a small farm west of this city and engaged in poultry raising as a main business on his farm. From his poultry yards he is shipping daily several cases of eggs to Miami, Fla., for which he received under contract for his entire output the year around 90¢ per dozen. He makes a specialty of White Leghorns and ships only infertile eggs, almost the entire lot of uniform size and each a beautiful white.

The success of Mrs. Sheppard in establishing a market for his poultry products has encouraged other farmers in his neighborhood to enter poultry raising on a large scale.

KANSAS INDUSTRIAL COURT DISMANTLED

tween employer and employee is firmly, and, we hope, permanently established."

Can Not Prescribe Hours of Labor.
This decision came about through a flackback from the Wolff Packing House case, which resulted in a decision adverse to the court two years ago.

The decision Monday holds that the industrial court cannot prescribe hours of labor, nor fix time and a half over time charges, and that the compulsory arbitration powers are in violation of the fourteenth amendment.

In 1923, the supreme court held that the industrial court could not regulate wages. Thereupon, the Kansas industrial court ordered the Wolff Packing company, the defendant in the previous case, to maintain an eight hour day and pay time and a half for overtime. The packing concern protested that this was regulation of wages and carried the case up to the supreme court, again winning out completely.

Decision of Court.
"The system of compulsory arbitration which the act establishes is intended to compel, and, if sustained, will compel the owner and employees to continue the business on terms which are not of their making," the decision says. "It will constrain them not merely to respect the terms if they continue the business, but will constrain them to continue business on those terms."

"Such a system infringes the liberty of contract and rights of property, guaranteed by the due process of law clause of the fourteenth amendment. The authority which the act gives respecting the fixing of hours of labor is merely a feature of the system of compulsory arbitration and has no separate purpose. It was exerted by the state agency as a part of that system and the state court sustained its exertion as such. As a part of a system, it shares the invalidity of the whole."

This compulsory arbitration provision was the foundation stone of the court because, through it, control and forced settlement of strikes and wage disputes could be brought about. It was the feature which aroused the bitter antagonism of labor forces.

Washington, April 13.—A decision which gives employers a new weapon in fighting organized labor was handed down by the supreme court Monday, when it approved the "American plan"—a device resorted to by San Francisco building contractors for fighting the closed shop.

The device was declared to be a violation of the anti-trust laws by the district court. The government brought the case. But the supreme court reversed that view and held that the "American plan" is American. This decision makes it possible for employers in many other large cities to employ this approved device in fighting highly organized labor organizations. It is a marked victory for open shop advocates, because it gives them a legalized weapon.

The "American Plan" is a simple device which grew out of the intense battle between the San Francisco building trades unions and contractors. In order to prevent indefinite suspension of building because of strikes, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce devised the "American plan" to break the strength of the labor unions. Through its sponsorship, the Industrial Association of San Francisco was organized to cooperate with the Builders' Exchange, embracing perhaps 1,000 contractors and dealers.

This association introduced the use of permits for certain indispensable building supplies, such as cement, lime, plaster and sand. No builder could obtain these supplies except by permit. The condition on which permits were granted to contractors was that the latter employ the open shop arrangement. Unless a contractor agreed to the open shop, he could not get any of these controlled building materials.

Sought to Avoid Law.
The promoters of the "American plan" sought to avoid the anti-trust laws by basing the permits on supplies obtained within the state of California, thus obviating any control of interstate commerce. But plaster was one of the commodities included and plaster was brought in from outside the state and it was because of the attempt to control the sale of plaster brought in from outside that the district court declared the "American plan" operating in violation of interstate commerce and was therefore illegal.

So the case came to the supreme court for the final word. The supreme court, however, held that interstate commerce was not always interstate commerce. But plaster came from outside of the state, it is true, but it is not the stock in trade of the contractor and it was therefore not interstate commerce. So that when it went out of the stock rooms under the permit control, it was no longer interstate commerce, but one of intrastate commerce, the supreme court held.

Statement of Court.
Answering the contention of the lower court, that the permit system interfered with the free movement of interstate commerce, the supreme court said:

"No doubt there was such an interference, but the extent of it, before either shown, nor perhaps capable of being shown, is a matter of surmise. It was, however, an interference not with the design of the appellants, but purely incidental to the accomplishment of a different purpose."

Under this decision, the "American plan" may be applied by other groups of employers. The San Francisco building trades are one of the most powerful union labor groups in the country. They control 90 per cent of the building trades labor and have forced the most stringent regulation of conditions of labor. Plumbers were required to report the number of fixtures set each day, and those exceeding the standard set were disciplined, according to the evidence in this case. Plumbers refused to use wide brushes with long handles for painting roofs and all such work was required to be done with a small brush.

TWO GEORGIA CASES ARE TURNED DOWN.

Washington, April 13.—The supreme court refused today to consider cases in which it was sought to bring up the following questions: The right of a customer to repudiate obligations arising out of dealings in cotton futures on the ground they were gambling transactions, as raised by Penner & Boone, New Orleans brokers, in a case against T. G. Holt, of Macon, Ga.

The right of a policeman to forcibly search a person for liquor and to compel him without a warrant to deliver such contraband without first having placed him under arrest, as raised by F. C. Buffington in a case brought from Rome, Ga.

MODERN WOODMEN CASE DECIDED.

Washington, April 13.—Fraternal and other organizations conducting an insurance department can require assessments to be paid under a policy in origin by the benefits of the federal employers' liability act, the supreme court held today in a case brought by the Modern Woodmen of America against Jennie Vida Mixer.

Under the by-laws of the Modern Woodmen of America, its policies do not become payable upon the presumed death of members, based on their disappearance. The policies must be kept alive by the payment of assessments during the period the insured was expected to live according to the mortality table of the organization.

Walter C. Mixer, a member of the Modern Woodmen, disappeared from his home in Nebraska. Nothing was heard from him for seven years and his wife brought suit in the state courts, contending that under the state laws the presumption of absence of her husband established the presumption of his death.

Appealing from a decision in her favor, the Modern Woodmen appealed, insisting that the laws of Illinois, under which the organization had been incorporated, were controlling.

COURT RULES ON TAX CASES.

Washington, April 13.—Any gain in value must be taken into account on taxes under the 1918 revenue act upon securities purchased before March 1, 1913, and sold in 1919, the supreme court held today.

The court in deciding a case brought by the government against the estate of James J. Flannery, held that the gain and not the market value on taxes under the 1918 revenue act, in the law for determining value, or the purchase price, must govern in such cases. In 1919 Flannery sold some stock which he had purchased prior to March 1, 1913. When his executors reported on the transaction, they claimed that the profit which had been made was not taxable income because the revenue act of 1918 had provided that, on property acquired prior to March 1, 1913, the fair market value of the property on that date should be used.

They contended the market value of the stock on that date was lighter than the prices obtained on its sale, although the sales prices were higher than the purchase price. The court of claims decided against the government's contention that the profit derived was taxable.

In another tax case the court ruled that the purchase price when lower than the market value on March 1, 1913, may be used in computing for taxing purposes income derived from bond and stock transactions. This case, from Pennsylvania, was brought by the government against Charles H. Ludington. Prior to March 1, 1913, Ludington purchased shares of stock in different corporations, and sold them at a loss in 1918.

The commissioner of internal revenue permitted Ludington to deduct as losses the difference between the purchase and the sales prices, but the third circuit court of appeals sustained Ludington's contention that in computing his losses he should have been permitted to have used the higher market value of the stocks and bonds on March 1, 1913, instead of purchase price.

RULING ON TAXES ON LEASED PROPERTY.

Washington, April 13.—A railroad company computing its net income for federal taxation purposes cannot deduct expenditures on properties under lease, including the cost of constructing and extending piers and dredging on account of such property, the supreme court held today in a case brought against the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

Lower federal courts ordered the government to refund that part of income which it required the railroad to pay when it refused to permit any deduction for construction and repair on property which the railroad operated under lease. This was today reversed.

NARCOTIC PRESCRIPTIONS NOT RESTRICTED.

Washington, April 13.—Physicians in prescribing narcotics to addicts, are not required to restrict the quantity called for by their prescriptions to small doses for strictly curative purposes when the narcotics are to be self-administered by the addict, the supreme court held today in a case from Spokane, Wash., brought by Dr. Charles O. Linder.

In the lower courts the government won on its contention that when the narcotics are to be self-administered the physician can only prescribe that quantity which will be curative of the habit, and not place sufficient narcotics in the hands of the addict to enable him to become a seller of narcotics, or to administer to himself doses larger than those necessary to effect a cure.

RULING IS MADE ON LIABILITY ACT.

Washington, April 13.—Employees of common carriers operating in foreign commerce who are injured abroad while engaged in such commerce are not entitled to the benefits of the federal employers' liability act, the supreme court held today in a case brought by the New York Central Railroad company against Frank P. Chisholm, administrator.

Matthew McTier, as chief on a buffet car on the New York Central, running to Montreal, Canada, was killed when in coupling of cars at Quebec a coffee pot struck him on the head, causing his death. Lower courts awarded his estate damages under the federal law.

EXPRESS COMPANY CLAIMS UPHELD.

Washington, April 13.—A shipper is required by law to file a written claim within four months from the date delivery should have been made to recover from an express company damages for delay in delivering merchandise, the supreme court announced today.

The case was brought by the Adams Express company against Arthur H. Van Pelt, involving a carload shipment of eggs from Kentucky to New York. The express company contended that he had failed to file a claim in writing within the time allowed by the uniform express receipts given him. The New York state courts held that the notice in writing was not necessary.

TAXES GIVEN PRIOR CLAIM.

Washington, April 13.—Federal and states taxes have priority over claims for wages in the settlement of a bankrupt estate when the assets will not meet all obligations, the supreme court held today in a case brought by the trustee in bankruptcy of the West Coast Rubber corporation and others against the United States and the city and county of San Francisco.

WHITE TAX FIGHT LOST BY GEORGIA

Washington, April 13.—Georgia lost in the supreme court today in its contest over the taxes which should be paid by the estate of J. B. White.

White, a resident of Richmond county, Georgia, died in 1917, and the report of his executor disclosed that he had on deposit with Henry Clews & Co., New York City, personal property to the value of approximately $1,125,000.

Richmond county authorities contended that although White had held this property since 1911, he had paid no taxes upon it, having returned personal property for taxation purposes valued only at $300. After considerable negotiations, the controversy finally reached the board of arbitration, which awarded the state an amount equal to one-tenth of the admitted value of the securities.

The state supreme court set aside the award as void. The executor of the estate entered suit in the federal district court for southern Georgia and paid to the tax collector the amount which had been awarded by the board of arbitration. The federal court restrained the state from collecting any sum in excess of that amount, although it also held that the arbitration had been void. From that decision both the state and the executor appealed to the supreme court.

38,377 Children In White House Easter Egg Hunt

Washington, April 13.—Washington children romped and frolicked to their heart's content over the spacious white house grounds today, rolling their Easter eggs and generally enjoying themselves under the smiling watch of Mrs. Coolidge.

The warm sunshine of a perfect spring day helped to make the annual Easter Monday egg rolling festival the success which soiled small faces and happy weariness disclosed at the end of the day, and tonight the broken eggs, that littered the broad lawn, with the grass worn off completely in spots, provided still further and slightly more enduring evidence of this success.

The president appeared on the south portico for a few minutes after luncheon to greet his thousands of youthful guests, and was able to take an occasional glimpse of the scene from his office window. Mrs. Coolidge went out early, but an attempt to mingle with the children was frustrated when two pet dogs became so excessively boisterous that she had to retire with them. Then, and again in the afternoon, she received several intimate friends and their families, including some children of cabinet members, on the portico overlooking the grounds.

Those in charge at the grounds counted 38,377 entering the grounds. This is 2,000 more than last year. More than 40 parents became lost, but girl scouts established headquarters and quickly rounded them up for their distressed children. Two women were overcome, but quickly revived.

Today also was the birthday anniversary of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., who died last summer. He would have been 17.

FARM MARKETING CONDITIONS PROBED

Washington, April 13.—Going on the assumption that the past is an index to the future, the department of agriculture is engaged in compiling figures on farm marketing conditions for the last 100 years.

The economists will gather data from files of country newspapers, farm magazines, storekeepers' account books and farmers' diaries with the hope of throwing light on marketing problems.

Prices over a cycle of 100 years, the experts believe, will afford valuable information in the effort to get the farmers' buying and selling power closer together.

Sutton Is Slated For Reelection At Session Today

With the reelection of Willis A. Sutton as superintendent of the Atlanta public school system generally conceded, interest in this afternoon's meeting of the board of education centers around revision of the budget to provide funds for teachers' salaries for the remainder of the year, and introduction of a resolution by W. C. Slate asking Atlanta voters to endorse the present form of administration at the referendum June 10.

"I have not yet made up my mind whether I care to serve another three years in this position, even if the board wants me," Superintendent Sutton said. "However, whether or not I am reelected, I certainly will not tender my resignation at Tuesday's meeting, but will serve out my present term, which expires July 1."

Opposition Vanishes.
Although some possibility of opposition was reported several weeks ago, it has died out, and Mr. Sutton is expected to be elected unanimously. He already has served as superintendent of schools for four years, and if reelected again today will hold the office three years more.

Even though no fight is expected in the superintendent's election, a stormy meeting is predicted, and there probably will be a battle over the question of revising the budget.

Say Revision Is Imperative.

Members of the board who favor the revision take the stand that it is necessary in order to secure a loan of $150,000 for construction of a new unit for Hoke Smith Junior High school. Mayor Walter A. Sims, who has been authorized by city council to negotiate the loan, has reported that the banks have refused to loan any money unless the school board adopts a budget setting up a sufficient amount to cover salaries for the remainder of the year. The mayor, consequently, has held up further negotiations pending revision of the board's action this afternoon.

Mr. Slate's resolution will mark the first definite step of any school official to combat the proposals to be submitted to the people at the June referendum, recently authorized by city council. The resolution simply asks the people to endorse the present school system by voting to leave administration of the department as it is at present.

The referendum will decide whether financial control of the schools shall revert to city council; whether the mayor and chairman of the school committee shall be ex-officio members of the school board; and whether members of the board of education shall be elected by council.

DR. KENDALL PREACHES
SERMON AT U. S. PEN

Rev. T. R. Kendall, of the Methodist church, South, delivered the Easter sermon at the federal prison Sunday morning at the invitation of Chaplain J. A. Sewell.

Dr. Kendall used as his text the words of Paul, in the third chapter of Philippians, and the tenth verse: "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection." The speaker laid especial stress on the fact "that even as Christ was raised from the dead, and of Him the Lord created a new body, so will we be raised from the dead and of us a new body will be created, if we will not accept the resurrection as a fact, but believe it."

The big prison orchestra assisted with the Easter musical program, while the 2,000 people crowded into the limited space of the chapel joined heartily in the congregational singing. Immediately after the chapel services, Dr. Kendall stated, former Governor McCray, of Indiana, confined at the prison, taught a Sunday school class of more than 200 men.

LITTLE GIRL HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Knocked unconscious by an auto mobile at Garnett and Whitehall streets shortly after 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, a little girl, believed to be Cornelia Atkinson, 8 years old, of 60 Lingo way, is in a serious condition at Grady hospital.

On her arrival at the hospital, she was in a dazed condition and was unable to give her name. Later she seemed to improve, got off the operating table, and walked about the clinic, it is reported, but still could not understand questions asked her, and made no attempt to answer them.

When carried to the roof garden—the children's ward—about 5 o'clock in the afternoon her mind began to clear up and she told nurses that her name was Cornelia Atkinson, that her age was 8 years, and that she lived at 60 Lingo way, apartment No. 1.

The automobile that figured in her injury belonged to J. C. Daniel, 25-year-old student, who lives at 328 West College street, Decatur, Ga. He placed the injured girl in a passing car and accompanied her to the Grady hospital, going to police station and reporting the accident after X-ray examination of her head showed negative results for a fractured skull.

Daniel was placed under $2,000 bond under a charge of reckless driving. His bond was signed by Scott Candler.

Upon his arrival at police station Daniel made the following statement for the official police report: "I was driving down Garnett street. There was a line of cars on the other side of the street and the traffic was heavy. A little girl, about 10 years of age, name and address unknown, came from behind two cars, running into the front fender on the left of my car, the car knocked her down. I picked her up and carried her to the Grady hospital and waited for an X-ray report, which was negative for a fracture."

2 BIG CORPORATIONS OPEN OFFICES HERE

Two more large corporations have been added to the long list of concerns coming to Atlanta during recent weeks, according to announcement Monday by Fred T. Newell, secretary of the industrial bureau of the chamber of commerce.

The Elevator Supplies corporation, of Hoboken, N. J., is establishing a southern distributing office at 119 Spring street. It will supply company products to Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and north Mississippi. W. A. Crowe, Jr., is district manager.

Industrial Works corporation, of Bay City, Mich., will open a large southern distributing plant in Atlanta within the near future, the industrial bureau was advised Monday. N. R. Crawford, national director of sales, in this corporation specializes in wrecking machines, locomotive and freight cranes, pile drivers, steam hammers and similar products.

BEAVERS CERTIORARI HEARING UP TODAY

A writ of certiorari filed in Fulton superior court by attorney of Chief James L. Beavers, who was discharged more than a year ago by the council police committee, is slated for a hearing today before Judge George L. Bell.

The certiorari proceedings were filed in an effort to have the courts review action of the committee in depositing the chief.

The committee first voted to discharge Chief Beavers and he obtained from the supreme court a ruling that the action of the committee was illegal. Another trial was promptly called by the committee and Beavers was again discharged, one of the grounds being that he had not made daily inspections of the force as provided by the regulations.

The certiorari which is to be argued today is based on the second action of the committee.

Attorney George Spence appears for deposed Chief Beavers while City Attorney James L. Mayson will represent the committee.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD WILL HEAR IMPORTANT CASES

Several hearings of wide interest are scheduled before the Georgia public service commission for today.

Among the cases is a petition of the South Georgia Public Service company, of Americus, for the right to issue $500,000 in bonds and $5,000 in stock to purchase the properties of the American Light company.

The protest of Livezey & Co., of Macon, against certain freight rates between Savannah and Statesboro will be heard.

A petition from the Hartwell railroad for the right to change its schedule so as to conform to schedule changes proposed by the Southern railway, with which it connects, is also on the docket. The complaint of the Thomas E. Grady company, of Savannah, against the freight rate on syrup and tin cans between Cairo and Albany is to be heard Wednesday.

The petition of patrons of the Georgia Railway and Power company for a new stop on the Inman Park-Emory University car line in Atlanta on Oxford road has been postponed until April 28.

W. D. Uphaw Suggests Naming Hoke Smith Georgia Chancellor

Hoke Smith, former governor of Georgia and ex-United States senator from this state, has been suggested for the chancellorship of the University of Georgia, by Congressman William D. Uphaw, of the fifth Georgia district. Mr. Smith is now practicing law in Washington, D. C.

The chancellorship of the university was made vacant by the resignation of Chancellor David C. Barrow and has not yet been permanently filled by the board of trustees.

In a statement regarding his suggestion Congressman Uphaw says that "Chancellor Hoke Smith" would "sound big and inspiring not only in Georgia, but all over the nation."

New Bus Line To Open.

A bus line between Easton and Atlanta will be formally opened to the public, Wednesday, according to announcement Monday by officials of the Dixie Coaches. The line will include Decatur, Clarkston, Lithonia, Conyers, Covington, Social Circle and Madison.

Hansell Defends New Paving Job On Ponce de Leon

Indications Monday night were that the denial of W. A. Hansell, chief of construction, of the charge that new paving on Ponce de Leon avenue is not being laid according to specifications, would close the incident. The charges were made Monday morning by A. M. Schoen, chairman of the city board of consulting engineers, and a property owner on Ponce de Leon.

"I am not contemplating taking the matter to the courts," Mr. Schoen stated, "although any property owner who is assessed for the paving has the right to do so if the work is not being done according to specifications. I simply was convinced that the paving was not being laid properly, and told Mayor Sims what I know about it. Although there is a possibility that I may take further action, I have no idea now what line it will take."

Charges of Schoen.
Mr. Schoen told Mayor Sims that second-hand foundation materials are being used in laying the foundation for the new street, whereas specifications call for a new foundation.

The chief executive immediately wrote Mr. Hansell, instructing him to investigate the job, and to condemn the paving if it has not been laid according to specifications. If the paving is condemned, it would necessitate tearing up of all paving already laid, and starting the entire job over.

Chief Hansell denied that the paving is being laid improperly, and said that as far as he is concerned, there will be no condemnation proceedings.

McDougal Defends Work.

Alex McDougal, of the McDougal Construction company, which is laying the pavement, also stated that every specification has been complied with, and that the job is one of the best ever put down by his concern.

Indications of this trouble came several weeks ago when Councilman John A. White, chairman of the street committee, introduced a measure in council under which street inspectors would be elected by the street committee instead of being appointed by the chief of construction. Reports that all work on Ponce de Leon avenue was not being done in accordance with specifications, were largely responsible for his action, he stated.

Mr. Hansell said Monday that four inspectors have kept continual check on the paving "now under way, and that he made a personal inspection, and found all work being done according to contract."

HEARING DELAYED FOR VENUE CHANGE ON RAWLINGS' PLEA

Hearing on the change of venue plea of G. G. Rawlings, Sandersville banker, charged with complicity in the murder of G. A. Tarbuton, Johnson county farmer, has been postponed from Wednesday to next Monday, it was announced Monday by the state supreme court.

The case is before the court on a fast bill of exceptions to the decision of Judge Earl Camp, of the Dublin circuit.

J. J. Tanner, jointly indicted with Rawlings in the Tarbuton slaying, has been tried and convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Rawlings' attorneys base their plea for change of venue on the claim that feeling is so high in Johnson county that their client would not receive an impartial trial there.

CROSS BILL FILED IN HOLDER FIGHT

Attorneys for W. T. Anderson and Stanley S. Bennett, members of the state highway board, have filed a cross-bill of exceptions in the mandamus litigation started by John N. Holder, deposed chairman of the board, according to dispatches received here from Macon.

Appeal to the supreme court against the action of the highway board, which defense attorneys have made by Mr. Holder's attorneys and the action of the highway board on Monday court, when the case was argued before the second appeal, to the supreme court from the rulings of Judge Malcolm D. Jones, of Bibb superior court, when the case was argued before him over a week ago.

The demurrer of the defense, sustained by Judge Jones, was to the effect that Governor Walker was authorized, under the law, in revoking the commission of Mr. Holder as chairman of the board.

The cross demurrer of Mr. Holder's attorneys held that the report of C. R. Dawson, private auditor appointed by the governor to investigate the highway department, was not admissible as evidence giving the reasons for the governor's actions. This defense was sustained by Judge Jones and it is from that ruling that defense attorneys are now excepting.

No date for the hearing has yet been set by the supreme court, but request for speedy disposition of the case on account of its vital effect on an important state department, has been made by attorneys for both sides.

SOUTH MORELAND AVENUE PAVING PETITION READY

A petition calling for paving of South Moreland avenue from the Georgia railroad tracks to Ormeau avenue—the largest paving job proposed under the bond plan—will be ready for formal approval of the street committee Friday, according to announcements Monday.

The paving would extend for a two-mile stretch, and the petition calls for concrete. Work probably will be started within 30 days, it is stated.

Polar Expedition Ships Encounter Battle With Ice

(Copyright, 1925 in U. S. and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All Rights Reserved.)

BY JAMES H. WHARTON.

By Radio from Steamer Farm, April 11.—The North Pole flight expedition of the Norwegian Aero club had its first battle with the ice to night when the Farm, one of the two ships conveying the expedition to Spitzbergen, encountered a dense ice field. This metal vessel, with thin sides that offer little protection against the ice pressure, dared not enter the field and changed its course westward.

No word has been received of the Farm, which became separated from the other ship in a gale Thursday afternoon. We feel certain we shall find her safe on our arrival at Kingsbay, Spitzbergen, which with good luck we should reach tomorrow evening.

Our chief concern is that the crated parts of the two airplanes, lashed on the open deck of the Farm, may have been smashed.

Ronald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole and a member of the expedition, said the ice was blown here from the White sea off the northern Russian coast by the same southeast gale which Thursday drove the two ships off their course. The gale has abated, but we are still rolling heavily.

Navigation in the heavy ice-strewn seas is ticklish. The pilot house is frequently swept by waves and the captain has been drenched on the bridge.

PENSION APPLICATIONS ARE VETOED BY MAYOR

Two applications for pensions, approved by city council last week, with an appropriation of $150 to pay expenses of W. Zede Smith, general manager of the waterworks, to the convention of the American Waterworks association in Louisville, were vetoed Monday morning by Mayor Walter A. Sims.

The pension applications—made by W. Zede Smith, ex-policeman and J. F. Anderson, former employee of the construction department—were disapproved, the mayor said, because they had not been approved by the city health officer, and therefore were illegal. The sum of $150 for expense money for Mr. Smith's Louisville trip is entirely too much, the mayor said.

Son of J. J. Brown Marries Granddaughter of Watson

Two prominent Georgia families were united Sunday when Miss Georgia Lee, granddaughter of the late United States Senator Thomas E. Watson, and Walter Brown, son of Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown, were married at North Augusta, it was learned in Atlanta Monday.

The young newlyweds left immediately after the ceremony for New York, where they will stop at the Hotel Roosevelt and on their return will make their home in Atlanta, according to news dispatches from Augusta.

Commissioner Brown did not learn of the wedding until Monday morning when he was handed a telegram in his office at the state capitol. It read simply "Georgia Lee and Walter are married and on their way to the Hotel Roosevelt, New York."

When he recovered from his astonishment Commissioner Brown said: "Walter certainly put our town on us, but he has chosen a fine girl and I rejoice with him."

Walter Brown first met the new Mrs. Brown at the home of her grandfather, the late Senator Watson, at Thomson, Ga. In 1918, when the senator, then publisher of The Jeffersonian, was sued by the federal government over material published in the United States court at Augusta, Commissioner Brown went to that court and took his son with him. Young Brown acted as personal attendant and messenger in the court room for Senator Watson.

After that time, the youth was a frequent visitor at the home of Senator and Mrs. Watson at Thomson. During these visits he and Georgia Lee, the senator's favorite grandchild, were constant companions and out of this childhood friendship grew the romance which reached its culmination on Sunday.

Commissioner Brown said that Walter had borrowed one of the family automobiles Friday, saying that he was going to drive to Thomson to visit friends. Nothing was said of any wedding plans, however, and the news of the marriage came as a complete surprise to both families in Atlanta.

Marry in South Carolina

Word from Augusta is to the effect that the young couple drove over to North Augusta, S. C., in order to avoid the necessity of five days posting of the application for marriage license, required under the Georgia law, and were married by Dr. H. Floyd Surles, pastor of the North Augusta Baptist church.

Mrs. Walter Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar S. Lee. She has lived in Atlanta for the last few months, the family home being at 10 Ridgecrest road, Druid Hills. Her father is state food and drug inspector.

"Georgia had been at Thomson for a week," said Mr. Lee Monday, "and Walter went down there Saturday night. Neither of them intimated that they expected to marry at this time."

Walter Brown is 22 years old and is a popular student at Georgia Tech. He is a member of the S. A. E. fraternity chapter there.

Catholic Church Gives High Honor To Mrs. Spaulding

Michigan City, Ind., April 13.—Recognition of a young life time's devotion to charitable purposes was granted Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding, 20, belle to the millions of her father, the late John H. Barker, of the Haskell & Barker Car company, today, when she became the first woman in America to receive the military order of the holy supple, one of the highest honors of the Catholic church.

The historic honor also was accorded Edward J. Fogarty, warden of the Indiana State prison, and T. C. Mulen, Michigan City attorney, today.

It dates back to the eleventh century in the records of the Catholic church and tradition carries it back to the eighth or ninth century when the Empress Helena, one of the saints of the church, had much to do with its founding by Charlemagne and St. James, the first bishop of Jerusalem.

In general, the distinction, which carried with it in the instance of a woman the title "dame" or "matron," is bestowed upon those who have been active in the care and attention to the holy places of Jerusalem. It also may have a wider significance, however, and be awarded for other Christian or churchly activities, according to Catholic dignitaries.

The announcement of the award said Mrs. Spaulding was chosen because of a number of liberal gifts to Catholic churches and hospitals and her noted work in those institutions.

When she was 15 years old in 1911, the then Catherine Barker arranged to divide annually with the Catholic and Episcopal churches of Michigan City and her grandparents part of the $30,000 annually allotted for her education and living expenses. The idea followed the custom of her father who settled an annuity from his estate of $30,000 annually for the church.

Hell's Location, Virgin Birth Brown Urges "Common Sense" in Religion Fail To Interest Dean of "Eli"

Chicago, April 13.—The life of Christ, His death, His resurrection and His transforming power to the individual and society, these are more important than the circumstances of His birth, Dean Charles R. Brown, of Yale university, said Sunday night in addressing the Sunday Evening club, when he alluded to the religious controversy between those who call themselves fundamentalists and those calling themselves modernists.

He said that controversy was brought about by the type of persons addicted to asking foolish questions. "People who don't know what to say," he said, "immediately open their mouths and say it. They want to know where Cain got his wife, how Jonah lived after the whale swallowed him, how long the world was made and such insane things as that. Their minds are cluttered up with a lot of useless bric-a-brac and lumber, like the housekeeper who needs to move every once in a while from California to Connecticut to get rid of the excess. It is good for the individual to move spiritually."

"When anybody asks me what I have to say about the Virgin birth, I reply that I say what Paul said. And what did Paul say? He didn't say anything about it. In all of his letters, not a syllable did he write about Christ's birth, but a great deal about His life, death and resurrection, and His transforming power to the individual and society."

"After all, that's the important thing. Much more important than the location of heaven or hell, or how many will be saved in the last day. 'Take hold of your spiritual problem at the small end as Darwin, Newton, Watt and Franklin solved scientific problems, with the small things close at hand with which they could work intelligently.'"

RADIO COMMENCEMENT FOR COLLEGE OF AIR

Manhattan, Kan., April 13.—A radio commencement, the first in the history of the Kansas Agricultural college here, will be held on April 17 for the 1,800 students of the "College of the Air." The program will be radioed from station KSAC, the college station, on a wave length of 341 meters.

The "College of the Air" has been conducted by the extension division. Eighteen hundred students enrolled during the year for courses in general science, agriculture, engineering and home economics. Printed lectures were sent to the students the day they were broadcast and examinations were held at the end of each 18-week period. Certificates were presented to those completing their work.

The opinion of the court was given in the case of Clifford Jones, a marine corps officer, who during part of a taxable period lived in quarters provided at Fort Monroe, Va., and also in Washington under an allowance. He paid his income tax under protest and sued to recover the amount of the tax on his allowance.

MILITARY OFFICERS FAVORED BY COURT IN TAXATION RULING

Washington, April 13.—A decision involving only $21.80, but having considerable importance to officers of the army, navy, marine corps and other branches of the government in determining their income taxes was handed down today by the United States court of claims. These officers, the court held, may deduct from their incomes in making return allowances for quarters or the value of quarters provided by the government in lieu of allowances.

More Than 6,000 Members Are Enrolled by Churches During City-Wide Revival

Methodists Lead in Accession, With Baptists Second—Thanks Extended to Newspapers.

Though many of the churches which participated in Atlanta's most gigantic revival during the past three weeks, were not represented at the general report meeting held at the First Baptist church Monday morning, the list of new members turned in reached a total for the series of 5,617 new additions.

This total was recorded by three denominations, the Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians with the Methodist churches leading the list with 3,456 and the Baptist and Presbyterian organizations following with 1,835 and 1,327 respectively. It is believed that the total of new members will reach at least 6,000 with all of the other denominations represented in the number.

Newspapers Thanked.

Following the general meeting Monday morning the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' association passed a resolution thanking the press of the city for their cooperation during the revival.

Among the churches that will continue revival meetings for another week is Calvary Methodist church where the pastor, Rev. E. G. Thompson, is conducting services. Special night services will be a feature of the services during the third week. Tuesday night will be "boys" night, with a special sermon for boys. Wednesday night will be "girls" night, with a sermon for girls. Thursday will be "circle" night and Friday will be "Sunday school" night. Eight new members united with the church last week, making a total of 54 members for the year.

Mrs. Willa Short, the only woman evangelist who is conducting a series of revival meetings here, is preaching every night at 7:30 o'clock at the Old Brick church, Fair and Kelly streets. She has been following this branch of religious work for several years, and her interesting sermons have drawn large gatherings to the church.

Rev. C. M. Meeks, pastor of Park Street Methodist church, will continue revival services for another week. The interest in the services has been so great, it is stated, and the crowds so large, that the continuance was decided upon. Many conversions have been reported during the revival, and on several occasions people have been turned away from the church for lack of room.

Revival services at Park Street church will continue each night this week. Dr. S. B. Bell, preaching and the Wisdom sisters leading in the song services. Shelton, of Emory university, delivered the sermon at Park Street church Sunday morning, while Dr. Bell preached Sunday evening. At each meeting the house was packed to capacity. Monday night Dr. Bell preached on "Religious Preparedness."

Rev. Neal A. White, pastor-evangelist at the Martha Brown Memorial Methodist church, is this week conducting a special series of services devoted to the interests of boys and girls. On Wednesday night the boys and girls of the church will have charge of the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

Judge Hill's Class Wins in Attendance Contest on Easter

First honors in the Men's class attendance contest which was held Easter in many of the leading churches of the city was won by Judge Warner Hill's class of St. Mark's Methodist church, more than 600 members and friends filling the church to overflowing.

Among the activities of Judge Hill's class in their successful effort to win the attendance contest was a big parade led by the Atlanta Military band which marched from the Georgian Terrace hotel to church on Easter morning.

According to Dr. J. B. Mitchell, pastor of the church 95 members were taken into the church on Easter Sunday. Of this number 59 were by profession of faith and 36 by letter.

S. R. Young, assistant chief engineer of the Atlanta & West Point railroad, succeeds Mr. Barrett as the head of the board of education.

WEST END REQUESTS FASTER CAR SERVICE

A petition asking for faster car schedules to West End was received by the Georgia Railway and Power company Monday, according to an announcement Monday afternoon. The petition was signed by a large group of citizens of West End. Approximately 45 families whose names appeared asked that the old two-door cars be discontinued from the service of the company.

A main point of the petition requested that an express car be operated from Whitehall and Mitchell streets to Lee and Gordon streets, especially during rush hours. Local cars to Lee and Gordon streets were also suggested, they to follow the fast express car, which is to be known as "West End Express."

ZION CHURCH FUND STILL BELOW QUOTA

With approximately $2,000 already raised, Rev. A. M. Goodwin, pastor of the Zion church, is appealing to membership of the church and all who can contribute, for a remaining sum of $3,000, which is to be matched with another $5,000 appropriated by the board of stewards of the Charlotte (N. C.) Zion church, for erection of a new church in Atlanta. The offer to give the Atlanta Zion church $5,000 was made by the Charlotte church in January and since that time, members of the local congregation have been diligently at work. Goodwin expressed confidence the sum would be raised and probably over-subscribed before the end of the campaign.

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or tetter needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unrelenting itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, the all back up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826. S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

All homes open for inspection this week. Compare these matchless values.

Three of the four model homes on Avondale Estates have been sold—but will be kept open for several days. Because of the great interest shown, it has been decided to furnish and display four additional model homes, to be announced soon. ALL homes are open for inspection this week.

Section of business district, overlooking portion of central plaza.

Proof of Atlanta's Faith in Avondale Estates sales exceed $100,000 first week

SALES at Avondale Estates have already passed the $100,000 mark. The property was placed on the market April 5th—just one week ago! In addition, sales amounting to more than $50,000 are now being closed—all an unparalleled testimonial to this fine new residential area, just twenty minutes from Five Points.

With sales and improvements barely begun, the lots are now moving at the rate of $2,000,000 a year. Only three lots remain on beautiful Kensington Drive; only eight on Avondale Road, a matchless winding boulevard half a mile in length! And sales are increasing daily.

These early purchasers will surely reap the reward of their foresight—just as investors in Atlanta's other high type additions have earned handsome profits from forward-looking buys in undoubtedly desirable sections.

Prices now are remarkably low, on finished homes and homesites, and as improvements speed ahead, values are bound to rise.

Atlanta has instantly shown her appreciation of this splendid expanse of 1,000 acres which is Avondale Estates. More people have visited it since its recent opening than have ever before inspected a residential development in a similar period. Atlanta's newspapers estimate the total at between 75,000 and 100,000.

Night and day they have crowded the model homes, justifying the prediction that shortly this will be the home of 15,000 contented people who will enjoy the advantages of a country estate, enhanced by every city convenience and easily accessible by motor or by trolley.

When Mr. G. F. Willis, local capitalist, purchased this property, he announced that certain things would be done.

THESE FEATURES WILL INCREASE VALUES

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND flowering shrubs, evergreens and shade trees will add an artistic setting to the already beautiful community.

Miles upon miles of paved streets and sidewalks. A most modern school, with accommodations for 550—already in operation.

A complete business section to supply all household needs—already built and flourishing.

A large lake, to provide boating, swimming and fishing.

Beautifully adorned plazas that provide spacious areas of light and sunshine.

Golf privileges on immediately adjacent course—athletic fields of every description, including tennis, basketball and football; playgrounds and wading pools for the children.

Electric lights, water and excellent transportation facilities. Avondale is just thirty minutes from Five Points on the Stone Mountain line. Excellent bus service, too, at moderate rates, is available. In short, every convenience, every comfort.

These things have been done and the work goes on apace. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent and now, in Unit One, there are scores of beautiful homes, miles of broad, paved boulevards and sidewalks, abundant electrical service, a splendid water system, a beautiful white way, parks and plazas.

Countless shade trees, shrubs and flowers add their subtle fragrance to the clean, pure air of this wondrous land of out-of-doors.

Construction on the Venetian swimming pool, banked with foliage and flanked by quaint pergolas and plentiful bathhouse facilities, will begin this week—and the pool will open June 1st. On June 1st, too, the Avondale Stables will open—designed in the English style of architecture and housing fine saddle horses, available for a pleasant canter over the winding bridle-paths.

Prices are remarkably low. The handsome homes, at from $8,500 to $14,000, are priced from $1,500 to $6,000 lower than homes of similar quality of construction in locations any way comparable. The choice lots, ranging in size from 60 to 200 feet frontage are selling at from $1,000 to $2,500, depending on size and location.

Until you see Avondale Estates for yourself, you can not realize its marvelous features. Terms are attractive—one-fourth cash, balance in one to five years, or monthly payment plans arranged. See Avondale today!

Call any Realtor, or 'phone DEarborn 0176 for a representative who will gladly motor you to the property—without obligation, of course.

German Monarchist Plot Suspected in Move To Place Von Hindenburg in Politics

BY ERIC KEYSER.

Berlin, April 13.—Propaganda to make foreign countries look more kindly upon the presidential candidacy of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has begun at the insistence of big business, which is manifesting anxiety at the unfavorable foreign reception to the old soldier's emergence from retirement.

Even among the marshal's friends there is talk to the effect that his selection was hasty. Now that his candidacy is a fact the empire bloc, including the monarchist element of German politics, is endeavoring to win foreign approval as well as German votes.

Dr. Loebe, one of the empire bloc campaign directors, said in an interview that it would be necessary to create a favorable impression abroad and especially in the United States. The empire bloc will tag their candidate with "law and order," and as one who would strengthen Germany materially, particularly by bolstering the Daves plan against the attacks of socialists.

May "Trot Him Out."

If Loebe and others are unable to swing public opinion in the United States then Hindenburg himself probably will be trotted out this week in a press reception to American reporters at Hanover.

At this meeting Hindenburg, an avowed monarchist, would explain why he would support the republic if he were elected.

The empire bloc propaganda will strive to convince the world that there is no thought of restoration of the monarchy now. This is probably true if emphasis is put on the "now."

The republic bloc supporting Wilhelm Marx against Hindenburg insists that the latter's election would tremendously encourage those groups in Germany which think that the fatherland without a kaiser is nothing. The republicans, for folk bloc, draws the issue clearly as between republicanism and monarchism.

No Personalities.

There are to be no bitter personal attacks on Hindenburg. Instead, republican speakers tell of "the shameful thing done to Hindenburg by dragging him, a septuagenarian, into the campaign when he has no conception whatsoever of politics."

This appeal already is having some effect. Many Germans are losing their venerable Hindenburg in pity, and they condemn empire bloc politicians for dragging the old man into the political quagmire.

Nevertheless, there is a formidable vote-getter because he always will remain a national hero. Among the workers, however, there is contention at the appearance at the head of a party ticket of Hindenburg, the symbol of Hohenzollernism.

M'DONALD IS HELD FOR TAMPA OFFICER

Tampa, Fla., April 13.—Deputy Sheriff F. M. Thompson left here yesterday by boat for Key West to bring back James F. McDonald, arrested there Saturday for passing numerous worthless checks in Tampa, St. Petersburg and Jacksonville. Advices from Key West today were that the deputy had arrived.

McDonald was arrested in Key West as he attempted to board a boat for Havana. Police got on McDonald's trail about three weeks ago. He got away and left evidence of his "passing" profession in St. Petersburg, it is claimed. Merchants there lost several hundred dollars in worthless checks, according to authorities. McDonald is said to have gone to Jacksonville and then to Key West, where he was apprehended.

Three Auto-Train Crash Victims in Serious Condition; Funeral of Girl Who Was Killed To Be Held Wednesday

Left to right: Martha Alice Grant, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clifford Grant, who was killed Sunday in auto-train crash at "Rock Cut," near Forrest Park, 12 miles from Atlanta; Clifford Grant, Charney Taylor Peacock and Mrs. Peacock, Jr., who were injured. Mrs. Peacock is in a critical condition at the Atlanta hospital.

LEGION FUND DRIVE WILL CLOSE TODAY

Today is the last day of the Legion campaign for funds for support of disabled world war soldiers and war orphans. W. R. C. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced Monday night. Atlanta is still $3,000 short of raising its $25,000 quota of the state's share of the $500,000 national fund for this purpose.

Heads of civic, social and industrial organizations will meet at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building to compute the final figures and the drive will be closed regardless of the amount raised.

The appeal that business men at least double their quota because of the war, and the drive will be closed by some of them at the outset of the drive, is meeting with response. Mr. Smith said. J. J. Bookout raised his contribution 1,900 per cent. The Tip Millinery store raised its gift 400 per cent.

Robert Zahner, 33 Crescent avenue, called at Legion headquarters Monday morning and voluntarily contributed $50 with the statement that he now has a boy in the navy who served during the war and felt that the cause was worthy of his support. Another $50 contribution was received from Ernest F. Brown. The undertaking firm of Barclay and Brandon sent in its check for $50 to memorialize the name of Wiley Sutton, a Fulton county boy who lost his life during the world war.

The youth's Bible class at the Druid street Methodist church, under the leadership of Judge John S. Candler, took action at its Sunday morning service to memorialize the name of Wiley Sutton, a Fulton county boy who lost his life during the world war. The class sent in a check for $50 Monday in the name of Lieutenant Louis C. LaConte. The subscriptions above mentioned bring the deficiency down to about $3,000. The Legion teams will attempt to put the balance of the drive "over the top" today with the assistance of teams from the civic organizations and a solicitation which will be made of the industrial organizations of the city by a special committee named by Mr. Smith last Friday.

Mussolini Seeks To Heal Vatican And State Breach

BY FRANCISCO REA.

Rome, April 13.—Premier Mussolini plans to close the breach which separated the Vatican and Italian governments and kept the pope a prisoner since 1870.

The government intends to offer the pope absolute sovereignty over the Vatican grounds, including St. Peter's cathedral and the Vatican palaces and gardens, in exchange for a formal acknowledgment from the holy father that the Catholic church is not entitled to temporal power. In addition, Mussolini would build a railroad station in the Vatican grounds and hook it up with the main lines by a spur.

Pope Would Be Freed.

If Mussolini's plan succeeds the pope will no longer be a voluntary prisoner within the walls of his magnificent home. Like the earlier popes, he will be able to travel among his religious subjects.

Since the trouble of 1870 was patched up, the pope has occupied the Vatican and grounds under the law of non-interference, which assured to the church the perpetual possession of its seat of government. The church never has become reconciled to the loss of the papal states and the temporal power that went with them.

The Fascist government would take this initiative in any scheme to re-establish the position of the church in Rome. From a trustworthy source, it is learned that the government is planning a plan whereby the pope could be submitted to the nation in such a way as to make it worthy of consideration, without risking a rebellion which would humiliate Mussolini and his party.

Clayton County Officials, Under Direction of Sheriff Reagin, Begin Probe of Wreck

Although the six victims who survived the crash between an automobile and a train Sunday afternoon, were reported to be resting comfortably Monday, little change was noted in their condition by attending surgeons.

Funeral services for 4-year-old Martha Alice Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clifford Grant, 545 Capitol avenue, who was killed in the wreck, will be held Wednesday, the hour to be announced later by Greenberg & Bond. Burial has been delayed pending arrival of out-of-town relatives.

Victims whose conditions are reported to be precarious are Mrs. C. A. Peacock, Jr., Mrs. C. A. Peacock, Sr., and 4-year-old Charney Taylor Peacock. All but the 4-year-old boy are at the Atlanta hospital. He is at Grady.

C. A. Peacock, Sr., who also is at the Atlanta hospital, was reported to be better Monday night. His son, Tip Millinery, who was driving the ill-fated car, is being treated at the Grady.

John Clifford Grant, Jr., 7-year-old brother of the little girl who was killed, was reported by surgeons at Grady as recovering. His injuries are not serious.

No statement has been issued by the railroad company concerning the accident.

The driver of the automobile said that he came to a dead stop before crossing the tracks, which is known as a "blind crossing."

Clayton county officials, at the direction of Sheriff Reagin, Jonesboro, have begun an investigation of the wreck, it was stated Monday.

'A Certain Order' Figures in Plea For Venue Change

Moultrie, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) Mrs. Core Lee Giles and her brother, McKinnis, were indicted for assault and battery in connection with an attack alleged to have been made upon Mrs. Frank Myers, principal of the Berlin school, and Miss Alice Ralston, assistant principal, who are being held in the Moultrie county jail.

Judge Ozden Persons, presiding for Judge Thomas, who is ill, late today having granted a change of venue on a motion filed by counsel for defense.

Motion Not Granted.

Solicitor General Clifford E. Hay did not appear for the defendants, asserting, "I am convinced it was filed solely for the purpose of delay. In the event it is overruled, an appeal would delay the trial for several months. For that reason I have no objection to a change of venue being granted, provided the trial is set for the first court day in this circuit which holds court, and that is Thomas, where court convenes Monday." Counsel for the defense said this was agreeable and Judge Persons granted the change of venue, ordering the defendants tried in Thomas county.

In their plea for the transfer of the case to some other county attorneys for Mrs. Giles and her brother, they contended that a certain secret order, understood to be an organization for the purpose of supplementing the orderly administration of justice by the courts of the state and for meeting out the reformation of the law, which organization conceives to be social and legal transgressions, has determined that these defendants shall be adequately protected by the law, which they are alleged to have committed.

It was further contended that in the event the defendants were acquitted by a jury they would be in danger of violence.

The motion also asserted that stories about the case appearing in a local newspaper, written on information furnished by enemies of the defendants "made the defendants appear as great transgressors of the law and thus tending to poison the minds of the jurors of the county."

Banquet Marks Opening Of Hollywood-by-the-Sea

Opening of Gorgeous Offices for New Florida Development Signalized by Banquet at Henry Grady.

Hollywood-by-the-Sea was formally introduced to Atlanta Monday night at a magnificent banquet given at the Henry Grady hotel. Leaders in the development of the new city, met leaders in Atlanta's business, professional and social life across the city, marking the close of the first day of operations of the new offices which have been opened in the Henry Grady for Hollywood-by-the-Sea.

This new city, which has begun three years ago and which now has a population of 4,000 permanent citizens, is "the realization of a dream and the materialization of aspirations," according to O. E. Behrmer, editor of the latter city.

Mr. Behrmer was the first speaker called on by Ivan H. Allen, who presided. He said that the new city was a great state, the speaker referred to the enactment last year, by the Florida legislature, of a law to forever bar any inheritance tax in the state. As a result of this legislation, he said, wealthy men and women from all parts of the country are now moving to Florida and making their homes there.

Roger Babson, financial expert, has predicted that Florida is destined to become the wealthiest state in the union, and this prediction will certainly come true, said Mr. Behrmer.

"There are more opportunities in a newly-developed country," he said, "and Florida is today merely at the beginning of her era of growth."

Eternal Sunshine.

The primary attraction of Florida, Mr. Behrmer stated, is her climate. It is the land of eternal sunshine, he said, and this is a priceless commodity.

The rush to Florida has begun because it is known to be a paradise, he said, and it has only just started its boom is now in its infancy. Land you can buy there for a few hundred dollars will be worth tens of thousands in a few years time.

Mr. Behrmer then pointed out the easy accessibility of Florida to the north, and this is a great advantage. There are 80,000,000 people who want to come to Florida—do you wonder that real estate values are jumping," he said.

Referring specially to Hollywood-by-the-Sea, Mr. Behrmer said that it must not be confused as a suburb, or subdivision. It is, he said, a city complete in itself, and therein lies the greatness of its inception.

"For a city you must have all sorts of people," he declared, "and this fact has been remembered in planning Hollywood. There are unrestricted areas where people of moderate means may build moderately priced homes. And on these are the two largest artificial lakes in the world, just completed, on the shores of which there will be built some of the most stately homes, lovely Italian villas and modern palaces, that will be seen anywhere."

Really On Coast.

"Hollywood is the only coast city in Florida really on the coast," he said. "There are no keys or islands between Hollywood and its glorious seven miles of ocean beach. There is, also, Lake Maple, one mile in area, just 700 feet from the ocean. Of Lake Maple, Mr. Young, the man who conceived and who has built Hollywood, is going to make a great 30 foot harbor, where the commerce of the world will come. The man who is to have charge of the creation of this harbor is General

George Goethals, the man who built the Panama Canal.

"Hollywood combines the three great opportunities for success as a city. Agriculture, industry and a great port. She is bound to become one of the really great cities on the Atlantic coast."

The speaker then told of transportation facilities to the new city. It is, he said, on the direct line of the Florida East Coast railroad, midway between Palm Beach and Miami. It is on the Dixie highway, the Ocean drive and the East Coast canal, and the Seaboard Air line is now projecting a new line there.

Scientifically Planned.

"Hollywood is the only town ever built scientifically planned. Most towns grow by haphazard," said Mr. Behrmer. "Hollywood was planned by Mr. Young, a man of tremendous idealism and experience who is laying every street and block in the most perfect possible way."

There has been $30,000,000 worth of property bought in Hollywood in the past three years," he said, "and every penny has been put right back into the development, enhancing the property values of the purchasers. There has been a tremendous increase in frontage values, jumping from one or two hundred dollars per lot to high in the thousands."

Mr. Rose, in his talk, stated that Mr. Young would not have established the great office for Hollywood, in Atlanta, that he has, if he had not known Georgia was prosperous.

Georgia is in good financial condition," said Mr. Rose, "and I believe that the richer our neighbors—such as Florida—become, the richer we will be."

Mr. Rose then cited income tax figures in Georgia for 1923 and 1924, showing that there had been a large increase of wealth in this state in that period. He also showed where a far larger proportion of income taxpayers were meeting their taxes in a single annual installment, instead of making quarterly payments as before, another indication that people are better off this year.

Professor Sutton told of the wonderful thing that Florida real estate salesmen have to sell.

"It is a climate," he said, "that prolongs life and brings happiness to children and to the aged. How delightful to know that you are performing one of the most wonderful services possible to mankind, when you sell a home to a man who goes to Florida to live, for you are selling him longer life and better health, and what greater things are there than these?"

Mr. Sutton said that there are only two places in the world which can offer the delights of the perfect climate and at the same time a stable government. These two are Florida and Southern California, and California is handicapped by its great distance from the larger centers of population. Mr. Sutton was unable to do more than acknowledge his thanks for being called on to speak, on account of a sore throat.

Music was provided for the banquet of the Hollywood Guatemala Marimba band, a unique and wonderful musical organization, while Francis Forre gave a jazz dance among the tables.

The palatial offices of "Hollywood-by-the-Sea," occupying two of the stores in the Henry Grady building, were opened to the public on Monday and proved a revelation in comfort and luxury to the thousands who called there during the day.

MACON DEPUTY, SHOT BY NEGRO, TO RECOVER

Macon, Ga., April 13.—Tom Fowler, negro, charged with shooting Deputy Earl Moseley last night when the officer went to the Fowler home near Lizzella, Ga., to quell a disturbance, was placed in jail at an early hour this morning. Deputy Moseley is resting comfortably in a local hospital and will recover.

Officers say that Fowler had admitted the shooting. The load of buckshot struck the officer in the right arm and right side of the head. Fowler fired when the officer entered his house to arrest him. Monroe Fowler, brother of the negro who did the shooting, is also being sought.

David Johnson, negro, was shot in the legs by the officers last night who were searching for the Fowlers. Johnson ran when officers came upon him and he was fired on. He is not seriously hurt.

Six Mysterious Deaths Laid To Morbid Passion of Nurse

POLICE SAVE HER FROM FRENCH MOB

Nimes, France, April 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Six mysterious deaths under almost identical circumstances aroused much speculation among the 60,000 inhabitants of the ancient town of Saint Gilles.

Public suspicion culminated today in the arrest of Antoinette Scierri. The police say that she confessed to having poisoned three persons whom she was attending as a nurse, and that she named Rosalia Gire as her accomplice. The latter denies the accusation.

Mlle. Scierri arrived in Saint Gilles in November. She was attending a poor woman named Marie Andouard, who died in December, after terrible suffering. Mlle. Scierri then installed herself in Mme. Andouard's room with her brother-in-law, a man named Rossignol.

On Christmas day, Mr. and Mrs. LaChapelle, friends of Mlle. Scierri, died of poison. Their deaths were attributed to their having eaten tainted food. Rossignol died in March and Mlle. Scierri said he had eaten mustard.

At the end of March, Mlle. Scierri invited two neighbors, Mme. Martin and Mme. Boyer, to have coffee with her. Mme. Martin died the next day. Mme. Boyer swallowed only a mouthful of the coffee, because, she said, afterward, Mlle. Scierri, without a word, was taken violently ill and has not yet recovered. These two women had eaten mustard the preceding evening and police suspects that Mlle. Scierri had put arsenic against Mlle. Scierri was stayed until a woman to whom she had given her child to rear, a Mme. Gouin, died of symptoms resembling those of the other cases.

The townspeople were furious and the police saved Mlle. Scierri from lynching by confining her in prison when she admitted having murdered the LaChapelles and her brother-in-law, Rossignol. The police assert that Mlle. Scierri had a morbid passion for inflicting suffering. They express the belief that her alleged crimes yielded her nothing, although she told them they had netted her $300 francs.

Dare-Devil Stunts Galore Are Klan Circus Features

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

People who are squeamish over seeing dare-devils risk their lives or get caught standing by a dull side-eating thud would do well to stay away from the big Klan circus and congress of dare-devils which opened today in the city of Atlanta. The park Monday night. The dare-devil, in an hour than there Monday night in an hour than has ever done in the most thrilling picture and it was all done in real life in a manner as to hold the big crowd enthralled.

There were so many thrillers offered that it is hard to begin to tell all about it. First came the great Valencia in the big circus top, who turned a double somersault in a 62-foot swing and caught on a swinging rope without the use of a safety net. This was thrilling enough in itself, but when the congress of dare-devils got under way a few minutes later the stoutest hearts had to stand a terrible strain.

The marvelous Mills on a rope 70 feet high, kept the collective hearts of the crowd in its collective throats. Mills and his partner first introduced their elephant "Jumbo," who walks across the high rope. Then Mills swings by his feet, toes and arms like a monkey on a pole and all of it is done so high in the air he can hardly be seen by the crowd.

The thrillers grew more thrilling as they proceeded. The Sensational Meredith followed by swinging with his teeth in a trapeze 40 feet in the air and then the climax came with a cloud swing all around his bar, turning a complete somersault over the heads of the spectators.

Next came the Great Pussier on his spiral tower. He mounted a globe at the foot of the tower and climbed up more than 50 feet. Next came his aerial saw-saw and he concluded his act by rolling down the tower in a burst of beautiful fireworks.

In the big three-ring circus were offered some of the best features ever seen in any show. The Ben Hassen troupe of whirlwind Arabian acrobats proved to be one of the most sensational features. The Hassen troupe of riders offered a daring and beautiful equestrian number. The Key-Japs and the Toki troupe introduced many novelties. MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS WILL START SEASON TODAY

Tech High Meets Boys' High on Diamond Today

Ancient Rivals Point To Hectic Struggle; G. M. A. Plays Commercial High

Tech High and Boys' High, ancient prep athlete rivals, will meet this afternoon at Almand Park at 3 o'clock in what promises to be the best prep baseball game of the season.

Tech High, holds a perfect record in the prep pennant race and Boys' High has lost only one game, but records count for nothing in figuring the relative comparison of a Boys' High-Tech High athletic combat—it will be a battle to the finish.

Breezy Winn, a veteran on the Boys' High twirling staff, will face the Smithies this afternoon in an effort to place his mates in a tie for the leadership of the league. Winn faced the Tech High nine last season and lost a heart-breaking game, but this year he is backed by a veteran club and one that has been well coached this spring.

Tech High with many newcomers will send Hill, the southpaw ace of the league, against the Purple and White of Boys' High. Hill was warming the bench last year when Winn was licked by Tech High, but now Hill seems to be the talk of the league by his great work of late. He has struck out 29 men in three games and ranks in the first three of the league.

While Boys' High and Tech High are battling it out at Almand Park, Commercial High will be playing G. M. A. at College Park. G. M. A. is figured to win easily over the Commercial High team because of its great work this far.

Cuban Track Team Brings Champion Runners to Tech

BY MACK THARPE.

University of Havana's track team, eight men strong, arrived in Atlanta at 7:30 o'clock Monday for the Tech relays. They are the first to appear on the scene for the big relay carnival.

Monday afternoon Coach Kendrigan, head coach at the University of Havana, sent his men through a light workout at Grant field. He has to get his men climatized before they will be at their best, according to his statement yesterday afternoon.

The Havana team is coached by an American, J. M. Kendrigan, graduate of Boston college. After finishing his studies at Boston he coached a while at Marquette, Detroit university and Louisville. He was a letter man in football, baseball and track during his college career. Kendrigan at present is head coach at the University of Havana, where he has held this position for three years. He has made trips to the United States with his football and baseball teams, but this is his first invasion with his cinder-men. It will be of interest to the followers of Joe Guyon and Bill Gavler to know that they were coached by Kendrigan before they matriculated at Tech. In fact, Kendrigan boasts of sending these men to Tech.

Following the Tech relays, the Cuban team will leave Sunday morning for the Penn relays, when they will match their ability with the easterners. After the Penn relays, Kendrigan and his sprinters will return to Cuba by way of Atlanta and Tampa. Coach Kendrigan feels that the experience will be worth everything to his boys, since they hold most of the Cuban records. He is now venturing out for American and maybe Olympic records.

Champion Sprinter.

The Cubans will be represented in the 100-yard dash by Barrientos, the champion of sprinters in Cuba. His record for the 100-meter dash is 11 seconds flat. According to his record, he should be able to step the 100-yard dash in about 10 seconds, since 100 meters is equivalent to 110 yards.

Barrientos, according to his coach, is best in the 200-meter dash, his time for this event being 22 seconds. This is also the Cuban record. Chromat will run the high hurdles for the Havana team. His time for this event is 16 seconds, this being a Cuban record.

The complete schedule follows: Battling Budd vs. Walloping Wop, 6 rounds. Reagan vs. Jaques, 6 rounds. Kid Warshaw vs. Kid (Pete) Manos, 105 pounds, 4 rounds. Charles Duncan vs. Charles Cartledge, 155 pounds, 6 rounds. Hallman Smith vs. Joe Malone, 135 pounds, 6 rounds.

record also. Chromat will have plenty of competition in this race. Basikin, of Auburn, ran the high hurdles in 16 seconds flat against Tech last Saturday in a dual meet. The University of North Carolina has a man also that runs the hurdles in a little less than 16; then, according to dope, the S. C. records will be in danger Saturday.

Notaris is Kendrigan's selection for the 880-yard race. He is another Cuban record holder, his time in the 880 being 2 minutes, 2 seconds. Notaris is also a member of the quarter-mile and mixed relay teams. The other men that will compose the relay teams are J. Barrientos, Compazans, Maicos, Notaris, Savary and A. Barrientos. Compazans holds the honor of being Cuba's best all-around athlete. He is tall, with developed legs and shoulders indicating that he is equally as good on the gridiron as on the track.

FAST BOXING FOR CLUB THURSDAY

Twenty-eight rounds of fast boxing has been promised the members of the Business Men's Athletic club next Thursday night.

The main attraction between Battling Budd, an Atlanta favorite, and the Walloping Wop.

Both fighters have been training for the past two weeks in preparation for the fight, which should be one of the best ever held by the Business Men's Athletic club.

The semi-final round between Reagan and Jaques should be another thriller. Both Reagan and Jaques have fought before Atlanta's fans before and showed up well each time.

WHEN hoary-headed (and blind) Dan Pfeninger, antique Southern league umpire, pipes a shrill "Play Ball," on the Lookout ball for this afternoon in Chattanooga, Atlanta will put a baseball club in the field that is possessed with a fighting spirit to win the Southern league rag, as thoroughly as a man with a skunkful of hooch is possessed of the old scratch.

Put that down in your little book, boys. If the Atlanta club doesn't come out with a Southern league pennant this year, it will be because nothing short of the National or American leagues could stop the winner and not because the Crackers weren't in there fighting for the top. Bucky Harris a year ago, was told, when he said the Senators had the fight in them, that this was a stock expression. Maybe it is, but fight won for the Senators.

FIGHT put the Washington club into the American league leadership and the world championship, where Bert Niehoff's boys have some right smart slugging ability to add onto their spirit. That means the Crackers have just about twice the chance in the Martin society that the Senator's had against McGraw's men.

Last night we had the satisfaction of a sort of informal talk with Dan Michalove, the Cracker big boss, in which he expressed exactly the opinion we've held for the last week. "The other clubs are good," he said. "Chattanooga and Little Rock are among the strongest. But at the same time the more I look over their lineups, I don't see any reason why we shouldn't win a pennant."

SKIES were dark a few days ago. With the season's opening at hand, Krehmeyer had a boil in his ear, Brock had a spiked ankle, Jenkins had a wrenched back and Fittery was down from a throat operation. Michalove and Niehoff figured all day Saturday, all day Sunday, and most of Monday. Then the lame and halt reported in such a way the bosses felt safe in letting Cashion, third catcher, leave and the situation solved itself. Two of the hurt will be back today. The others will show their stuff next week.

It wasn't a slump at the end of the season that hurt the Crackers last year. They got away to a bad start, lost games from injuries to some of their players and suspensions for others. Niehoff is more determined this year than ever to make every lick count. Making the first lick count today is considerable of an assignment, for Chattanooga rates high this year. We'll be there to see it well done.

THIS department has been requested to announce that The Constitution baseball team, in high spirits and new uniforms, will meet any press club (not pressing club) in town. Now, don't both shout at once. We aren't predicting, we're just stating a fact.

Scandals and Financial Troubles Have Not Hurt Public Interest in Game

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, April 13.—The spring song of the ordinary guy, who thinks a divot is a Scotch muffin, a service ace is a star aviator of the late war and a chucker is that which or one who chucks, will rise to full volume in the ball yards of seven American cities and one suburb Tuesday, for the first time since last October.

Golf has infected its thousands of white-collared patients in the last few years and subtracted them from the attendance roll at the ball yards. Tennis has claimed a quorum of friends and proportionate space on the sport pages. Polo, the rich man's game, has made a little progress toward general popularity.

But baseball remains, after all, the game of the guy in the flannel shirt, with mortar on his shoes or bunions on his palms from handling the wheel on the bridges of a five-ton truck. And baseball gets started for another season Tuesday afternoon with local disturbances as follows:

AMERICAN LEAGUE. Washington at New York. Boston at Philadelphia. Chicago at Detroit. Cleveland at St. Louis.

NATIONAL LEAGUE. New York at Boston. Philadelphia at Brooklyn. St. Louis at Cincinnati. Pittsburgh at Chicago.

Scandals and financial squabbles to the contrary notwithstanding, the pulse of enthusiasm seems to be racing faster than ever this spring and the only effect of those winter wrangles of baseball was to advertise the game or, if you will be so kind about it even at such a moment, the baseball business.

In every city that has a major league ball club, even in Boston and Philadelphia, there are people who can start with a column of figures at this moment and argue the local club into the world series next fall, although the players may admit to themselves and each other under the showers that they have no more chance than a flea on a snow man.

Most of the experts, whose fallibility by the way is exceeded only by their gameness in picking losers year after year, agree that the New York Giants are the best ball club in the National league and should win the pennant for the fifth time in five seasons. Pittsburgh comes next in the reckoning and Brooklyn third if only because Brooklyn ran second last year. The Chicago Cubs would have stood higher in the estimates but for the injuries of Rabbit Maranville and Grigsby, two men who were counted on to man the bellows and inflame the ambition of the team.

The Athletics, habitual losers, the Indians, and last of all, the Red Sox, bring up an extended rear. Outside of their respective cities nobody argues much as to their prospects.

Dazzy Vance, the most valuable player in the National league last year, probably will pitch for the Brooklyn Dodgers in the opening game with the Phillies. Walter Johnson or George Mogridge is expected to pitch for the Senators against the Yankees.

Babe Ruth's place in right field for the Yankees will be taken by a recruit from Atlanta named Ben Paschal.

Estimating that 30,000 people will be the average crowd, a quarter of a million voices will rumble and roar in the eight ballparks of the majors Tuesday afternoon.

M'LAUGHLIN TO TOE SLAB AGAINST CHATTANOOGA

Gober, Kinnere, Cashion Are Released; Pipgras Will Hurl Second Game

By GEORGE CONGDON

Today Atlanta swings into the 1925 Southern league championship race against the Lookouts in Chattanooga with Hollis McLaughlin, veteran of last season's campaign, doing the pitching, Johnny Brock working behind the plate and the same infield and outfield that turned back all comers except the Milwaukee Brewers, Detroit and Cleveland in a checkered exhibition season.

Sixteen players, including Manager Bert Niehoff, left last night for the Lookout town. They were McLaughlin, George Pipgras, Hugie Bedient and Rufus Clarke, right-handed slingers; Harry Courtney and Jack Slapner, wrong-siders; Brock and Joe Jenkins, catchers; Rod Murphy, first base; Niehoff, second base; Erwin Krehmeyer, shortstop; J. Carlisle Smith, third base; Mike Gazella, utility infielder; and Wilbur Good, Frankie Zoeller and Nick Cullup, outfielders.

The two players left behind were Paul Fittery, left-hander, who is recovering from an operation for removal of tonsils and adenoids, and Joe Thorburn, Cracker in 1921, who was the eighteenth man selected for the Cracker roster. Thorburn was selected yesterday after long conferences between Niehoff and President Dan Michalove.

The pruning of the Cracker outfit was done in this manner: Phil Gober, pitcher, who worked in semi-pro circles last year, was unconditionally released.

Marty Kinnere, obtained late last season from the Ottawa International league club, was released to the Greenville club of the Sally league.

Eddie Cashion, hard working and capable catcher, will go today to one of two Sally league clubs. Michalove will announce the club today, although Cashion was to leave last night.

Pipgras and Brock will be Atlanta's battery in the second Chattanooga game, set for Wednesday, for Niehoff is figuring on Bedient to relieve McLaughlin if McLaughlin should need relief in the opener today.

Release of Cashion was held up until the last minute yesterday on account of the situation with the catching staff. Brock will work although he has an ankle that is healing from a neat spiking last week and Jenkins has a sprained leg. While Jenkins could catch a game today, he will be rested until next week if possible.

It was only the big improvement in the condition of both regular catchers yesterday that brought the Cracker master-minds to let Cashion take the road to the Sally league.

Marty Kinnere was figured as the pitcher who would be kept, for with Clarke, Bedient, McLaughlin and Pipgras, right-handers, secure in their jobs, indications were that Niehoff would make the rest of his hurling staff an outfit of southpaws. When he decided to keep Thorburn, who has been coming through in great style during the last week or two, he reduced his list of possible left-handers to three, Harry Courtney, Jack Slapner and Paul Fittery.

Tickets Going Fast. Just as the Crackers pulled out of Atlanta last night, the rush had started for the tickets to Atlanta's opening day game on Thursday. Chattanooga will provide the fodder for the Cracker bats on that day also. Tickets are on sale at Oppenheim's cigar store and last night there was a continuous line of fans entering the store.

Atlanta stands a good chance of winning the 1925 attendance cup, Daniel Universal (thank Danforth) Statistical Service (that's ours) Michalove last night was optimistic.

"From the looks of things, Atlanta is going to get that cup this year," he quoth. "We sure ought to have it, too. It would look mighty good."

Three dignitaries will lend their presence to the occasion. Although they are a governor, Clifford Walker, and a mayor, Walter Sims, and a baseball league president, John D. Martin, they probably will lose all dignity when they see the Crackers in sure enough action and give themselves wholeheartedly to the jamboree.

MRS. WILLIAMS TURNS IN LOW NET

The second golf tournament of the season staged by the Atlanta Women's Golf association was played over the Brookhaven golf course yesterday morning. The greens and fairways were in fine condition for the tournament and with the excellent weather, a good representation was in evidence. Thirty-one members of the association played in the tournament. Several new members did not play up to their usual score. This was their first round over the Brookhaven course and not being familiar with the numerous traps, water hazards and the tricky course cost some of the players several extra strokes.

Mrs. T. T. Williams was the winner of the low net score in class A, with a fine 83. Miss Lucy Marvin Adams, who has lowered her handicap 36 this season, went into class A, and won the second low net with an 85. Miss Rosalie Mayer led the field with 89 for the low gross score.

Mrs. Chester Blakeman was appointed representative of the Atlanta association at the Brookhaven country club and will have charge of all the tournaments sponsored by the association at Brookhaven during the season.

The next tournament scheduled by the association will be a match play with handicaps applying and will be played over the East Lake golf course. This tournament should eclipse all former events in attendance and will be of great help to the beginners and will give the entries in the southern a week of tournament practice. This tournament will be played early in May.

Those playing in the one day medal tournament at Brookhaven club yesterday were Mrs. F. B. Porter, Miss Lucy Marvin Adams, Mrs. Don M. Chickens, Mrs. L. H. Beck, Mrs. Tommie Wilson, Mrs. Clarence Bradley, Mrs. Robert T. Jones, Mrs. Dana Belser, Miss Rosalie Mayer, Mrs. Donzor Lovendes, Mrs. L. J. Robinson, Miss Mae O'Brien, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. T. T. Lookout Club Shaped on Eve of First Game

Cubans Arrive for Tech Relays

ATLANTA'S FIRST PRO BALL TEAM WAS ORGANIZED IN 1884

By JULIAN GRIFFIN.

It was a warm summer afternoon. One thousand Atlantans, baseball fans in the making, filled the stands. The umpire strolled out in front of the grandstand to announce the battery. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said in deep guttural, yet amateuish tones, "for Atlanta, Russ will pitch and Sleiger will catch."

But that was 41 years ago, my lads: 'twas 41 years ago. Atlanta's first professional baseball team was taking the field for its initial contest, against nine for Augusta, and piled up thirteen errors while Augusta was making four miscues.

The game took like wildfire. People here crowded over the victory considerably, the story runs, and the national pastime on that day began its forward step toward replacing walking races in Atlanta, the popular sport at that time.

Henry Grady Covered Game. Of course the story of the game was too big to be entrusted to any ordinary reporter. The immortal Henry W. Grady himself, then editor of The Constitution, covered the contest for this paper, and while there are plenty of sport writers of today who know more of the inside details of the game, there is none who can turn out a page of prettier copy. We may reprint that story soon.

The story of the progress of organized baseball in Atlanta is more or less familiar to us all. The next year, 1885, 40 years ago, the Southern league was organized. The members, Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Macon, Augusta and Columbus, comprised the first organized league of professional baseball players south of the Mason and Dixon line, and is today the oldest minor league in existence.

Atlanta won the first pennant in the league after hectic competition, both physical and verbal. Since that time many box scores have gone into the record books and many of the players have crossed over the river, but the Southern league, with few years' revisions, etc., has lived through it all until today, and is recognized as one of the strongest minor leagues in the country. It was dubbed the Southern association in 1904.

Dubbed Crackers. Our hope on hand does not say when the nickname "Crackers" was attached to the local nine, but the legend we have always accepted says Georgians were first called Crackers on account of the efficiency of the natives at "cracking" whips. Hence, it was perfectly natural that Georgia's baseball team should be called the Georgia Crackers.

The pennants in the Southern association, since it was last revamped in 1901, were won as follows: New Orleans 6, Atlanta 5, Nashville 4, Memphis 4, Birmingham 3, Little Rock 3, Mobile 2.

Atlanta's first baseball flag waved nearly half a century ago. And today, as the Crackers take the field in Chattanooga to start the 1925 campaign, the wish of thousands of fans shall be that a team of Crackers will be playing a half century from now. And longer.

ROYAL LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

There will be a meeting tonight of the Royal league at Crumley Sharp Hardware company, 47 Walton street, for the purpose of completing arrangements for the opening of the season next Saturday afternoon.

Georgia counted two runs in the first inning. Middlebrooks, first up, singled, and went to second on Sato's walk. Both advanced on Richardson's sacrifice, and on Thompson's hit Middlebrooks scored. Moore singled and Sato crossed the plate.

"Scrappy" Moore led off with a hit in the fourth, was sacrificed to second, and romped home on Sato's safety. Two more were added in the fifth. Middlebrooks began the rally with a base on balls and was sacrificed to second. Richardson doubled but Middlebrooks was held at third by Captain Thompson's score both. "Scrappy" Moore, first up in the eighth, poled out a triple, and scored on Frain's hit, for the final run of the game.

"Scrappy" Moore was the bright light in Bulldog hitting, with three hits out of four trips to the plate. Nolan Richardson had a perfect day, hitting safely twice, besides a walk and sacrifice. Harry Middlebrooks and J. D. Thompson were successful on two occasions.

Remburg led with the stick for the visitors, getting two safe blows. Following the game Tuesday with Maryland the Bulldogs play Notre Dame on Wednesday and Thursday, and on Friday and Saturday play Michigan, completing a full week's schedule on Sanford field.

ATLANTA'S FIRST PRO BALL TEAM WAS ORGANIZED IN 1884

By JULIAN GRIFFIN.

It was a warm summer afternoon. One thousand Atlantans, baseball fans in the making, filled the stands. The umpire strolled out in front of the grandstand to announce the battery. "Ladies and gentlemen," he said in deep guttural, yet amateuish tones, "for Atlanta, Russ will pitch and Sleiger will catch."

But that was 41 years ago, my lads: 'twas 41 years ago. Atlanta's first professional baseball team was taking the field for its initial contest, against nine for Augusta, and piled up thirteen errors while Augusta was making four miscues.

The game took like wildfire. People here crowded over the victory considerably, the story runs, and the national pastime on that day began its forward step toward replacing walking races in Atlanta, the popular sport at that time.

Henry Grady Covered Game. Of course the story of the game was too big to be entrusted to any ordinary reporter. The immortal Henry W. Grady himself, then editor of The Constitution, covered the contest for this paper, and while there are plenty of sport writers of today who know more of the inside details of the game, there is none who can turn out a page of prettier copy. We may reprint that story soon.

The story of the progress of organized baseball in Atlanta is more or less familiar to us all. The next year, 1885, 40 years ago, the Southern league was organized. The members, Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Macon, Augusta and Columbus, comprised the first organized league of professional baseball players south of the Mason and Dixon line, and is today the oldest minor league in existence.

Atlanta won the first pennant in the league after hectic competition, both physical and verbal. Since that time many box scores have gone into the record books and many of the players have crossed over the river, but the Southern league, with few years' revisions, etc., has lived through it all until today, and is recognized as one of the strongest minor leagues in the country. It was dubbed the Southern association in 1904.

Dubbed Crackers. Our hope on hand does not say when the nickname "Crackers" was attached to the local nine, but the legend we have always accepted says Georgians were first called Crackers on account of the efficiency of the natives at "cracking" whips. Hence, it was perfectly natural that Georgia's baseball team should be called the Georgia Crackers.

The pennants in the Southern association, since it was last revamped in 1901, were won as follows: New Orleans 6, Atlanta 5, Nashville 4, Memphis 4, Birmingham 3, Little Rock 3, Mobile 2.

Atlanta's first baseball flag waved nearly half a century ago. And today, as the Crackers take the field in Chattanooga to start the 1925 campaign, the wish of thousands of fans shall be that a team of Crackers will be playing a half century from now. And longer.

ROYAL LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

There will be a meeting tonight of the Royal league at Crumley Sharp Hardware company, 47 Walton street, for the purpose of completing arrangements for the opening of the season next Saturday afternoon.

Georgia counted two runs in the first inning. Middlebrooks, first up, singled, and went to second on Sato's walk. Both advanced on Richardson's sacrifice, and on Thompson's hit Middlebrooks scored. Moore singled and Sato crossed the plate.

"Scrappy" Moore led off with a hit in the fourth, was sacrificed to second, and romped home on Sato's safety. Two more were added in the fifth. Middlebrooks began the rally with a base on balls and was sacrificed to second. Richardson doubled but Middlebrooks was held at third by Captain Thompson's score both. "Scrappy" Moore, first up in the eighth, poled out a triple, and scored on Frain's hit, for the final run of the game.

"Scrappy" Moore was the bright light in Bulldog hitting, with three hits out of four trips to the plate. Nolan Richardson had a perfect day, hitting safely twice, besides a walk and sacrifice. Harry Middlebrooks and J. D. Thompson were successful on two occasions.

Remburg led with the stick for the visitors, getting two safe blows. Following the game Tuesday with Maryland the Bulldogs play Notre Dame on Wednesday and Thursday, and on Friday and Saturday play Michigan, completing a full week's schedule on Sanford field.

Battery, Bat and Brains

Three Assets of Nicklin; Dixie Carroll Going Good

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

With spring predictions pointing to a closely contested race and more nearly balanced competition than has been the case in recent years, the 25th season of the Southern association opens Tuesday afternoon. The lid will be lifted with Atlanta playing at Chattanooga, New Orleans at Mobile, Birmingham at Nashville and Memphis at Little Rock. The scene shifts to Atlanta and Birmingham Thursday and Friday Memphis and New Orleans show at home.

Two new managers make their first appearance in the circuit and two other pilots have changed clubs during the winter. Russell Blackburne at Little Rock and Clyde Milan at Memphis break in while John Dobbs has left the pennant winning Memphis club to direct the destinies of the Birmingham Barons and Norman Elberfeld has moved from Little Rock to Mobile. Bert Niehoff at Atlanta, Larry Gillier at New Orleans, Jimmy Hamilton, Nashville and Strang Nicklin at Chattanooga are at their same old stands. Only Gilbert, Niehoff and Blackburne are expected to play in the opening games. Milan, however, may become an active participant later.

Many new faces will be seen as the season opens. The Southern contributed a large quota of players to the major leagues and these have been replaced from far and near. Men who saw service last season in the American association are found on several clubs and the Pacific Coast has furnished a number.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 13.—(Special.)—Reserving a big thrill for the fans until the eve of the opening game with the Crackers and keeping them racking their brains in wonder as to which 18 athletes would be retained out of 25 in camp, Strang Nicklin waited until the last minute to reduce his squad tonight and his announcement contains some surprises and not a few disappointments to various personal followers.

These disappointments would have come no matter who was retained nor who received the axe and out of the tangled mass of playing talent, Nicklin seems to have woven a team that can hit the old apple, can pitch, catch and has the seasoning to play brainy baseball.

Barnes at First. The final announcement settled the occupancy of first base in favor of Barnes, the Pittsburgher. Nicklin announced last week that Barnes had been sent back to Pittsburgh in favor of Mike Burke, but changed his mind and Barnes wound up the exhibition season Saturday and Sunday in a blaze of glory, hitting hard and fielding like a fiend. He ought to be the best fielding first baseman in the Southern league.

The other infield uncertainty, at shortstop, was settled by the retention of the Cuban, Alvarez, (not Olivares as was first given out) who was sent to the club last week by Louisville. The choice of Bill Akers, local hometown who came right off the sandlots and almost made the team, was hastened by the activity of some summer soldiers in the states who refused to believe that a Chattanooga boy can be a ball player. Akers seemed to lose his nerve after the riding he received and Nicklin thought it wise to find a berth elsewhere for the most promising young ball player on his roster.

The Lookouts of last season, retaining their roster when the latter's squad was cut, Lefty (Shad) Roe being marked for the discard with Reinhardt (Sparky) Kress. Roe had worlds of control but no "stuff" in 1924; all sorts of "stuff" but no control in 1924, and this spring doesn't seem to have much of either, though he has the "flick" which indicates a great pitcher in the making. He might find himself in other surroundings.

Dixie Gets Going. Dixie Carroll, after an alarmingly slow start, is going green now and Johnny Bates is playing left field as if at home there. Only three pitchers, Cunningham, Rogers and Sewick seem set ready to go the route, but Nicklin believes that a winning staff in the four with odds favoring Lefty James, the veteran, to be the remaining member of the regular starting quartet.

ELBERFELD MAKES FINAL CUTS. Mobile, Ala., April 13.—(Special.) The Mobile team in the opening game of the 1925 season here tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with New Orleans will be up Fifth Pitcher, Gers Murray, a right-hander, last year with the Boston American league club, on the mound, with Al Devormer, big league catcher, formerly of the Yankees and Red Sox, doing the receiving. Murray in the exhibition games he worked this spring has shown lots of stuff and Manager Kid Elberfeld figures he will turn the Pelicans back with a great deal of regularity.

"Fuzz" Bill Whittaker, whom the Bears defeated last year on opening day, will be started against the local club, with probably Pete Lapan behind the bat.

Supporting him, Whittaker will have in the infield Henry, first base; Ewoldt, second base; Gardner, shortstop; Hoffman, third base, and in the outfield Gilbert, Tucker and Emory.

With all the dead wood cut away, the Mobile Bears for the opening game will be up Fifth Pitcher, Gers Murray, Joliff, Welzer, Blithen, new men; Acosta and Shaney, holdovers, all right-handers, and Wiltse, left-hander, turned back by the Boston Red Sox; Catchers Al Devormer and Bert Chaplin, the latter reporting to day from his home at Sanford, Fla., where he has been working out with the Milwaukee team of the American association; Riley, first base; Kelly, second base; Cuetto, shortstop; Wilkie, third base; Jones, left field; Miller, center field; Devormer, right field, and Pat Hargrove, utility man.

LANDSTROM STARTS SEASON FOR CHICKS. Nashville, Tenn., April 13.—(Special.)—Landstrom, ace in the hole of the Volunteers in last year's Southern league campaign, will start the 1925 season for Nashville tomorrow when he takes the pit to fire away at the Birmingham Barons, reinforced by the wisdom and trading skill of John D. DeLoe, last year of the pennant-winning Memphis Chickasaws.

Opposing him on the mound will be Hall or Bennett, considered as star hurlers by the crafty Dobbs. The line-up and batting order for Birmingham will be: Griffin, left field; Stevens, second base; Cruise, right field; Jeanes, center field; Heath, first base; Shepper, third base; Hartford, shortstop; Lerim, catcher, and the pitcher, Bennett or Hall.

GO WARMOUTH TO LITTLE ROCK. Little Rock, Ark., April 13.—(Special.)—The veteran Cy Warmouth, speedy pitcher of last year's championship race, will lead the Chicks tomorrow in the opening day game against an entirely new Little Rock baseball club, with Russell Blackburne, known as a managing power, in command of the travelers.

Caldwell or Rubie Robinson will oppose the Chicks from the Travelers' rifle pit, according to Blackburne's announcement several days ago and confirmed today.

Rondeau, left field; Philbin, third base; Gulley, right field; Covington, first base; Mayer, catcher; Blackburne, shortstop; Koff, second base; Morrison, center field, and the pitcher.

Tanner, shortstop; Barber, center field; Anderson, first base; Rhinehardt, right field; Taylor, third base; Moore, left field; Barbare, second base; Kohlbecker or Yaryan, catcher, and Warmouth, pitcher. Merz, Morton or Caldera may be used in the game if Warmouth gets in a hole.

Administration Determined To Do Nothing To Embarrass France During Present Crisis

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, April 13.—The most conspicuous reflection in Washington on the French situation is a determination to do nothing that might embarrass her in a time of difficulty, and a conviction that absence of public comment is the best contribution the American capital can make toward helpfulness.

The best authority here has practically no doubt that France will come through without disaster, but does not expect the immediate crisis to be the last. The greatest expectation is that there may be some months of strain yet before France finally arrives at the mood which will accept the unescapable.

This "waiting" is regarded as the inevitable process for both politicians and taxpayers to arrive at doing what ultimately they must do. This authority regards the succession of financial and political expedients attempted since the war as to be expected in a country whose people have the French attitude toward severe taxation.

Loan Recommended.
But the same quality that hates to pay high taxes would hate still more to endure national insolvency and can be counted on confidently to avoid it. It is not doubted that as soon as enough politicians and enough factions have had the opportunity to try unsuccessful expedients, the French people will have been educated to the point of making the hard financial sacrifice necessary to maintain credit.

Between higher income taxes and some kind of forced loan, the latter is recommended by some of the more conservative persons in Washington, persons who would not propose it for America but say it fits better the national temperament and other conditions of France.
Fundamentally, there is no difference between a small capital levy and a high income tax. An American who has been paying a fifty per cent tax on his income, and many have been paying more, is worse off than if he had been required to pay a two per cent capital levy, because fifty per cent of a four per cent income is the same, each year, as a two per cent capital levy.

The proposal recently rejected in France was not a capital levy, but merely a forced loan of 10 per cent at once, or 2 per cent each year for five years, for which the government would give back bonds bearing 3 per cent interest.

That way of raising money for the government would sound good to many Americans who in the seven years since the war have paid in outright income taxes as much in all as 20 per cent of their capital.

Sacrifice Needed.
The need in France, according to this authority, is for the French people to be educated to the need of the sort of financial sacrifice that the citizens of other countries have made since the war. The present crisis is merely a detail of education by adversity.

There is the most complete assurance that France has the money, is sound financially, and ultimately will arrive at the indispensable psychology.

Washington has nothing to do with the loans of private American bankers to France, except a kind of informal O. K., which ordinarily is granted as a matter of course.

Washington probably would not hesitate to supply more private loans to France. It presumes, however, that American bankers would regard the withholding of new loans to France as being best for France itself, as being a part of the process through which France must be educated to stand on its own feet financially. But if France had real and legitimate need for further private loans from America, it is not doubted the loans would be made.

JUDGE LINDSEY WINS BY 26 VOTES

Denver, Colo., April 13.—Juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey, "the man who will not betray a child's confidence," again has vanquished the political powers that seek to crush him.

The denouement of the latest battle—the most turbulent of any—came Monday when Judge Lindsey emerged victorious from a recount of ballots cast for him and Royal R. Graham, his Ku Klux Klan opponent in the elections to the juvenile court judgeship.

There was rejoicing, but no celebration in the Lindsey household.
"It was simply a case of right winning over wrong," the nationally-known jurist commented.

Thus ended another attempt to unseat the man who for 20 years has wielded the gavel in the court of child reformation here.

The recount gave Judge Lindsey a majority of 26 votes. His original margin was 117.

The end of the recount revived stories of election night when Judge Lindsey conceded Graham's victory.

Receiving returns at his home, Lindsey prepared a brief statement congratulating Graham upon his election and retired.

After the official tabulation, Graham started his fight, charging ballots had been mutilated, or fraudulently tallied for Lindsey.

Judge Lindsey, untroubled, welcomed the contest, but meanwhile political groups began agitation for the abolition of the famous Lindsey court.

This aroused the ire of the veteran juvenile judge, and while shirt-sleeved men sweated over the recount, the judge and his followers enlisted civic organizations to fight for retention of his juvenile tribunal.

Lindsey expressed a willingness to resign, if need be, but said "the court must be maintained for the salvation of youthful incorrigibles at all cost."

As the recount progressed, the abolitionists weakened. Then from a mysterious source, Judge Lindsey's name was linked with a scandal involving a young girl and a man.

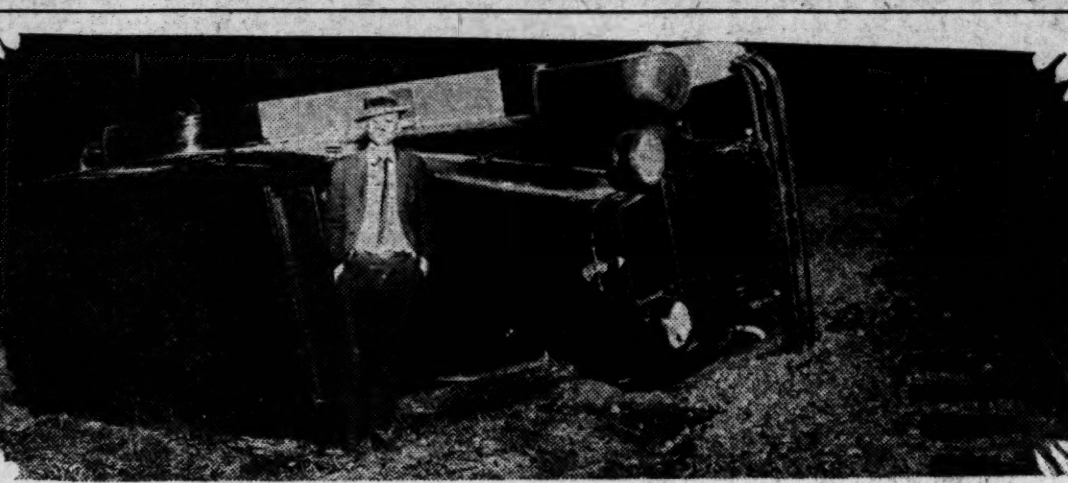

The jurist's political enemies renewed their fight, but the curtain fell on this episode when Judge Lindsey challenged them openly to publish and prove their charges. Such charges were "old stuff" for Lindsey.

Thereafter everything was peaceful and Monday's decision again vindicated the judge of any alleged wrong doing.

Graham has no recourse from the decision. It is final.

Ditches Auto To Avoid Crash With Train

A. E. Cunningham, of Griffin, Sunday night saved his life by ditching his automobile as a Central train flashed past. Cunningham was about to cross when he saw the approaching train. Realizing that he could not stop his car short of the tracks and did not have time to get across, he deliberately ditched his machine. The car turned over but the driver escaped with slight bruises and cuts. Francis E. Price, staff photographer of The Constitution, who was passing in his car on the way to make a picture of another wreck, took a picture of the damaged car and helped right it, after which the owner drove away little the worse for his narrow escape from death. This accident happened less than a mile from "Rock cut" (near Forest Park) where one person was killed and six hurt earlier in the day.

Cox Awards Cup Amundsen Prefers To Company 'H' Of 122d Outfit To Crowded Street

Oslo, Norway, April 13.—(By the Associated Press).—Before leaving Tromsø on April 9 for his latest polar venture, Captain Raold Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, declared he would feel safer in an airplane over the North Pole than in an automobile in a crowded Oslo street.

He said he believed there were many suitable places for making airplane landings in the vicinity of the pole. Each plane that starts from the expedition's base in Spitzbergen will carry skis, sleighs, kayaks and parachutes and a total of 70 pounds of provisions for each member of the expedition, including pemmican, milk chocolate, biscuits, evaporated milk and coffee.

While overland the Amundsen planes will attempt to fly as low as possible in order to explore the country. Each plane will have a carrying capacity of three tons.

Major Gunnar Isachsen, who has lived years in the Arctic and has led several expeditions there, believes the expedition of the Norwegian club has every chance of reaching the pole.

Much interest attaches to plans for the summer camp this year at Tybee, news that the regiment would go to Tybee instead of Brunswick meeting the favor of officers and men.

The camp will be held during the latter part of July.

Colonel Cox announced also that the April number of the "Gate City Guardsman," official publication of the regiment, would be distributed to officers at Wednesday's luncheon at the Ansley hotel, and that copies to all members would be given out as usual on next Monday night.

Tornadoes Hit West.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 13.—A series of small tornadoes in the vicinity of Vilas, in central Minn. county, late yesterday afternoon caused damage estimated at $10,000, says reports here. No one was injured, the report says.

WOMAN POISONING SUSPECT GUARDED

Crown Point, Ind., April 13.—Mrs. Anna Cunningham, of Gary, Ind., whose husband and four of her six children died under mysterious circumstances within six years, while another son, David, Jr., lies in a critical condition from arsenical poisoning in a Chicago hospital, was brought here today and lodged in a hospital ward at the county jail. She was placed under guard to prevent a second attempt at suicide, she having tried to strangle herself to death in a Chicago hospital yesterday.

Lake county authorities announced that she will face a sanity hearing tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Gary before a justice of the peace and two physicians. It was also announced that the case will probably be placed before the Lake county grand jury when it convenes at Crown Point on April 27.

Bodies Exhumed.
Meanwhile the bodies of two of Mrs. Cunningham's sons who were buried near Valparaiso, Ind., with the father, another son and a daughter, were exhumed and part of the vital organs were taken to Chicago for chemical analysis by the Cook county authorities while other parts will be sent to Indiana university at Bloomington for analysis if the university is prepared to make such tests and if not, will be sent to laboratories in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Cunningham who had fainted Saturday night while being questioned at Chicago and who tried to end her life yesterday, was weak when she entered the jail. She had no statement to make.

"If her mental condition is shown to be all right," said the prosecutor, "and if poison is found in the vital organs of either of the bodies exhumed today, in all probability she will be charged with murder."

The poisoning of Mrs. Cunningham's only surviving son, David, Jr., who is recovering in a Chicago hospital, led to an investigation here.

Tries Suicide.
Mrs. Cunningham was released by the authorities of the county hospital, where she attempted to choke herself with a bed sheet last night, to State's Attorney Crowe's men who transferred her to the custody of the Gary police by the formal signing of release papers.

A woman, who said she was a niece of Mrs. Cunningham, but who refused to divulge her name, visited her here, she was taken from the hospital.

"Who has my case?" Mrs. Cunningham inquired after greeting the visitor.

The latter said she did not know, and with scarcely no other remarks, Mrs. Cunningham departed in the custody of the Gary police.

Darling Steadily Improving.
Des Moines, April 13.—J. N. "Ding" Darling, cartoonist, who has been ill with peritonitis, sat up in his bed at the hospital here for the fourth day in succession today. His condition was said by physicians to be steadily improving.

Indiana Judge Indicted On Strength of Story Related by Two Girls

Terre Haute, Ind., April 13.—On the strength of sensational stories related by two girls, 14 and 15 years old, City Judge Robert Irwin has been indicted by the grand jury on the formal charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Indictments naming three prominent business men on similar charges were returned Monday, according to Prosecutor William Church. Their names are withheld pending the arrest of the men.

Judge Irwin declares that he is a victim of a "frame up" instituted by the father of the two girls, who once appeared before him in a divorce suit.

THIS KARNAK WOULD BE CHEAP AT $15 A BOTTLE

That's How Mrs. Dora Turk, Well Known Atlanta Woman, Tells What She Thinks of This Master Health-Builder.

Mrs. Dora Turk

Such results as that experienced by Mrs. Dora Turk, is the reason why the sensational new medicine, Karnak, has literally taken Atlanta and Georgia by storm. No medicine has ever accomplished what Karnak is now doing and nothing on earth could keep it out of the people's homes.

Many remarkable reports of recovering to health after taking Karnak have been made since its introduction in Georgia, but the following from Mrs. Dora Turk, 437 Crew street, Atlanta, a well known member of the Capitol Avenue Baptist church, is without a doubt, the greatest tribute yet paid to the health building powers of this wonderful preparation.

"I wouldn't take $500 for the good Karnak has already done me," declares Mrs. Turk. "For five years I had the worst case of stomach trouble anyone ever had. I tried every known means of relief, but nothing would help me. My husband spent $3,000 on treatments and trips to health resorts for me, but I didn't get one particle of good."

"I was unable to retain any food, not even water. For 18 months I lived on celery, peaches, crackers and milk, and even these things would nauseate me and make me miserable. I was nauseated from sick stomach practically all the time and was always coughing up blood and water."

"I never got a good night's sleep and I had no more strength than a kitten. I could hardly stay on my feet. My appetite left me entirely and I got to where I didn't care if I never ate again. Life was just a hopeless dream. If I even tried to sweep a room, I would just be gasping for breath and feel like I was going to smother."

"I lost weight continually and became so discouraged I had given up all hope of ever seeing another well day. In fact I thought surely my end was near."

"Finally we began hearing so much about Karnak, that about two weeks ago my husband brought me a bottle, and just to please him I began taking it. You can just imagine how beside myself with joy I was when after taking a few doses, I began to feel better. Why, I actually ate a real meal, for the first time in five years, and it didn't hurt me a bit."

"I just kept getting better until now, after taking two bottles, I feel entirely well. I have gained ten pounds already and feel at least 20 years younger. My neighbors are all marvelling at my recovery and I will never stop praising Karnak to my dying day."

"My husband feels just like I do about Karnak, and he wouldn't let me stop taking it if it cost $15.00 a bottle."

Karnak is sold in Atlanta exclusively by Jacobs' Pharmacy; in Marietta by Hodges Drug Co.; in Decatur by Elkins Drug Co.; in East Point by Christian's Pharmacy and by the leading druggist in every town.—(adv.)

Gossip In Hotel Lobbies

BY PAUL STEVENSON

The lure of trout streams, shady nooks, magnificent scenery and the clear bracing air of Georgia's mountains soon will come over great crowds of Atlanta people, and hotels in the mountain districts are preparing many improvements this summer for visitors, according to Dr. Craig Arnold, representative in the legislature from Lumpkin county.

The mountain section this year will be more enjoyable than ever because of improvements in roads in our part of the state," he said.

Lumpkin county shares with adjoining counties the possession of the famous Amicalola falls, the second highest waterfall in the United States, and favorite spot for tourists. One of the peculiar things about this waterfall is that the water begins its high fall from a cliff in Dawson county and ends its fall in a pool located in Lumpkin county. The falls property itself is owned and controlled by the United States government.

Owners of hotels in north Georgia are preparing to organize a north Georgia Hotel Men's association to promote interest in scenic beauties of that part of the state.

John Ledbetter, of Rome, developer of the "Cloudland" resort section of Lookout mountain, is at the Ansley hotel. Mr. Ledbetter said preparations are being made at the "Cloudland" club house for a big season this summer as many additional visitors are expected.

Ex-Kiwanis Chief Here.
Frank M. Oliver, of Savannah, former state governor of the Kiwanis club, is at the Piedmont hotel. Mr. Oliver is one of the leaders in the state welfare organization and also is active in Savannah civic affairs.

Another prominent Savannah visitor in Atlanta Monday was Gordon Saussy, head of the movement to develop the state port. Mr. Saussy also is active in good roads development and was one of the leaders in the movement to build the coastal plain highway connecting Savannah with Jacksonville which is now in the course of construction.

Alabama Opera Lovers.
Many Alabama citizens are coming to Atlanta to enjoy grand opera next week, according to Adolph R. Reich, manager of the Phipps hotel. Mr. Reich said, "We are only a few hours distant from Atlanta and many of our people are coming over next week to attend grand opera."

A. B. Moody, manager of the Wincoff hotel, left Monday for Havana, where he will attend the annual meeting of the Florida Hotel Men's association. Mr. Moody is the special guest of J. E. Kavanagh, president of the Florida association. Mr. Kavanagh is a member of the Meyer Hotel company, operators of the Wincoff hotel here.

Reynolds Leaves.
Frank T. Reynolds, resident manager of the Ansley, left Monday night for Jeffersonville. Mr. Reynolds will deliver the principal address at an agricultural extension meeting to be held by Wilkinson and Twiggs county farmers at Jeffersonville Tuesday.

Joe W. Jackson, manager of Jackson's hotel at Cornelia, declares that Cornelia is looking forward to a big influx of summer visitors this year.

"Cornelia is a beautiful mountain city and is destined to become the gateway to Georgia's wonderful mountain section," he said.

Stop that Dandruff

Dandruff is nature's warning against falling hair and approaching baldness. Don't ignore it. Thousands have dandruff and don't know it. Other thousands have dandruff and take it lightly. But don't forget—scientists agree that dandruff is the most common cause of falling hair and baldness.

Science now offers a marvelous new brush, called San-Detach, which sweeps the dandruff scales from the scalp, keeps your hair clean and massages the scalp to glowing vitality. This San-Detach Hair Brush has smoothly rounded Monel bristles which glide through the hair—not over it like ordinary brushes. These Monel bristles reach the scalp and give it that delightful massage.

A one minute test will show you how thoroughly it removes the germ-infected dandruff scales. You'll feel that life-giving circulation in the scalp which feeds the roots of the hair and gives it strength and beauty.

All this while brushing your hair—special treatment. You need never again fear dandruff, falling hair or baldness. This is the common-sense method which the highest authorities prescribe.

The San-Detach Hair Brush is sold on a 15 day, money back guarantee. If you are not delighted after using it 15 days, bring it back and your money will be cheerfully refunded. Try the San-Detach on this no risk offer.

Sold and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy, Inc., 1101 N. Peachtree St., N. E. Corner, Inc., Franklin & Cox.

COLOR CUT-OUTS Old Mother Goose

YOUNG SON JACK.
This is the second part of the famous old English rhyme about "Old Mother Goose." Children who save these paper dolls every day will have a whole set of dolls, by the end of the week, to act out the story with.
She had a son Jack.
A plain-looking lad:
He was not very good,
Nor yet very bad.
She sent him to market.
A live goose he bought.
"Here, mother," says he,
"It will not go for naught."
Color Jack's hair brown and his suit bright blue. His goose is gray, with a yellow bill. Watch for more of his adventures tomorrow.

Plays and Dance To Be Given by Jewish Women

Saturday evening, April 18, at 8 o'clock in the vestry of the temple on Pryor and Richardson streets, the junior council of the Atlanta section, National B'nai B'rith, will entertain the senior body with two short plays, following which the senior council will compliment the juniors with a dance. All during the year the juniors, composed of the most part of girls in high school or college, have given up their Sunday and Saturday afternoons for charity work at the different institutions: Hospital No. 48, Old Woman's Home, and Hebrew Orphan's Home, thus developing a deep interest in the council's philanthropic work.

Mrs. Herman Heyman has been the leader of this group for the senior council, with Miss Isabel Clark among the juniors cooperating. Mrs. Heyman and Miss Clark wrote the play, "Cross Words," which will be given, "Lucky Riddle," having been written a few years ago by a group of high school girls, among whom were several members of the junior council. MARINE ENLISTMENT AGE LOWERED TO 18

Permission was received in Atlanta Monday by Lieutenant Clifford Prichard to enlist young men for the United States Marines who are 18 years old.

During the past six months the age minimum has been 19 years and according to the local recruiting officer, 200 boys had to be turned back during that time because of their age. With the age limit being lowered, it is expected that a large number of young men will apply for examination.

About 20 men have been enlisted from Georgia so far this month, Lieutenant Prichard announced.

In the Garden With Burbank

As Reported by Elizabeth Urquhart And Edited by Luther Burbank

Foreword from Mr. Burbank

This series of articles has been prepared by Mrs. Urquhart by my aid and permission for the benefit of all who may not know how to proceed in the delightful health giving pastime of home gardening, and to relieve me of thousands of letters to which I have no time for reply.

Luther Burbank

As Reported by Elizabeth Urquhart And Edited by Luther Burbank

Luther Burbank is not only a man of science, but a lover of the beautiful as well, and in the midst of counting the results of his experiments in plant breeding he has found time to enjoy flowers in their more ethereal aspects of color and perfume and to perfect the art of painting the lily and cast other less happily endowed blossoms. He has found time as well to plan the beautifying of home grounds and to offer valuable suggestions to home gardeners.

With unerring taste he has considered color and combinations, and has put into words his vision of a garden picture—all posed in the sunlight against a background of shrubbery and lawns and each color calling to the other in a diapason of harmony. He says:

"The gardening practice of banking flowers around the foundations of a house, provides a setting, softens harsh angles and makes for beauty, just as vines give grace to the lines of a house, blending colors that might otherwise clash."

"Perennials are better grown near a building as they become part of the architecture, letting the annuals come with advantage in the garden beds without disturbing the general harmony. In planning house beds, shrubs and tall perennials should be planted next to the building, and in front many smaller plants, with perhaps a border of annuals."

"At the same time it is well to avoid massing of setting plants in groups in front of the house, as a better effect is produced by the use of a single plant here and there, its presence suggesting some feature of the building. Also if tall plants are set out near sidewalk or road, it is well to select those whose foliage is not too dense to permit glimpses of the house beyond."

"In regard to color, it is well not to make red too prominent a feature as well as purple or crimson, which do not blend with other colors."

"It might be added that white is always a peacemaker and colors that are not naturally harmonious may be brought into harmony by blending with white and with green. Magenta is a color particularly difficult to handle, although some daring artists have been able to achieve through a combination of magenta and light blue, with perhaps a dash of white for dilution and flavor."

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA K. FORBES.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mrs. R. K.—Henna will tint your hair so there is just a suggestion of red with something of a glint to it. This will neither hurt your hair nor your health; in fact, henna acts as a tonic. If you really want to bleach your hair, peroxide is the least injurious, for in the years when some women did this sort of thing, they ruined their hair for a number of years and in many cases the hair survived in spite of the abuse it received. The shade of gold that results from bleaching is very handsome and rarely coming to any one, especially when the work is done by any one but a skilled person.

Dorothy D.—Ridgy nails are caused by something foreign in the system, and a very dry skin also. You can help the trouble if you keep the nails manicured and feed them as much oil or cream as they will absorb. Never let the skin tighten around the base of the nails as that restricts the circulation, increasing the tendency to dryness. A generous use of the buffer helps along the circulation, and a very little bit of pumice and oil will remove the worst of the ridges without thinning the nail and making them brittle. When people have this ridgy nail tendency it is well to have a urine test occasionally as there may only be some very slight disorder, and yet enough to keep the blood from being just right.

Instead of using a powder every two you dry clean your hair, try rubbing the oil out with soft towels just as if you were drying it after a shampoo.

L. M. T.—The mixture of sulphur and molasses is an old-time blood purifier and a tonic taken in the spring time. It is made by mixing together flour of sulphur and molasses so it will be like a paste. The dose is a teaspoonful three times a day for three days, and then stop taking it for a few days to allow the sulphur time to cleanse the blood and be thrown off through the natural processes of the system. Repeat the doses for another three days, and repeat the days of omissions, noting the effects upon your skin and digestion; after several weeks there should be no more need for the purifier and tonic. No blood

In regard to vines Mr. Burbank has been much interested in various experiments in crossing different varieties of the ampelopsis, clematis, wistaria and bignonia.

The two best known species of the genus ampelopsis are the Japanese or Boston ivy and the Virginia creeper, the first of which grows more extensive and stone, and the latter dropping away from flat surfaces.

An exception is found, however, in the ampelopsis which is considered more of a clinging habit, grows more rapidly and has more beautiful autumn coloring.

"I consider," said Mr. Burbank, "the wild ampelopsis of Colorado much superior to those varieties better known in the eastern states, and have crossed this with other species, and have also crossed the Japanese ivy and the Virginia creeper."

"This last experiment in hybridization is as yet incomplete, but much is hoped from it in the future. So many varieties are possible, there is such need for additions to the short list of vines now grown, that work along these lines opens a wonderful opportunity for experiment."

Mr. Burbank also conducted many experiments with the well-known clematis, producing variations particularly striking in regard to color and size of the flowers.

The susceptibility of the clematis to a bacterial disease was considered in crossing it with the wild clematis found in Canada, and which grows in a winter temperature of 50 and 60 degrees below zero. The resulting variation proved hardy, but the experiments have not yet reached a stage when the new variety may be considered as "fixed."

The wistaria, both the American and the Chinese varieties, have been crossed by Mr. Burbank, who states that it will well repay more extensive experiment, and in connection with the subject mentions the pleasing variation of cultivating it as a shrub instead of a vine.

Through a radical pruning much of the vigor of the plant goes into the blossoms which are unusually fine, just as an unpruned wistaria vine will produce more foliage than flowers.

In addition to these vines Mr. Burbank has experimented with the climbing bignonia and the tecoma green in wild in Virginia and Maryland and produced varieties as to color and seed but no striking departures from the parent vines.

The amateur will be interested to learn that Mr. Burbank considers that these vines afford a good opportunity for work and experiment by the student gardener, and that he can gain skill in the art of repeated effort and an earnest desire to understand the underlying principles of crossing and plant improvement.

Tomorrow, Mr. Burbank will start the Vegetable Garden with you.

purifier should be taken any longer than actually needed, for the tendency thereof is to thin the blood.

Red and white. There is some disturbance in your digestive system, or restriction in the circulation to cause you to have a red and shiny nose at the time. Try taking agar-agar for a time to clear the digestive tract, and drink enough water to help along this cleansing process. If you wear glasses that pinch or tight bands anywhere, relieve the pressure to the circulation and it will surely improve the condition.

Tomorrow—Long Lashes. All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. The replies require considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

End That Cold—Tonight

With Hot Lemonade

WHEN you're sneezing—when you're chilly—that's the time to stop a cold.

Take a good, old-fashioned hot lemonade—as hot as you can stand it. Then a hot bath and go to bed, with plenty of warm covers. You will note the difference in the morning.

The effectiveness of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

Thousands used this effective and easy method during the influenza epidemics. You, too, will profit by doing likewise if a cold impends.

Mothers now keep lemons always in the house for such emergencies. Children should have this healthful drink. If their feet are wet after playing outdoors give them a hot lemonade. It's good insurance against colds and more serious results.

It takes but a few minutes to prepare it. Just squeeze the juice of a lemon in glass or cup of hot water. Add sugar if you wish. The time to act is when you first suspect the cold. Do this tonight if you feel chilly.

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

Mayor Tells Club Women Of Greater Atlanta Plans

Several hundred club women heard Mayor Sims in his splendid address on "Greater Atlanta," and enjoyed the delightful program on art given by the fine arts department, Monday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Mayor Sims was presented to the audience by Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the club, who stated that the close contact with the city department and the Atlanta Woman's club had in promoting the betterment of the city, and the cooperative policy that both Mayor Sims and the club held in bringing about these mutual benefits, made it a special pleasure to present Mayor Sims in his vision of Greater Atlanta.

The speaker paid a great tribute to the woman's club, saying that he knew of no greater factor in the life of the city than the organization to which he had never called upon this body for any assistance that he did not receive at once. He called attention to the assistance given by the club in securing the Candler field, which he said would in a few months no doubt enable Atlanta to have aeroplanes flying over the city with freight, parcels, etc.

Traffic Problem.
To solve the traffic situation, through the Beeler plan, continued Mayor Sims, "will be the greatest development ever attempted for Atlanta, and this must be done in order to take care of the city of 500,000 people. The Beeler plan calls for viaducts at Pryor street and Central avenue, and these viaducts must be built, as they are the base upon which the city's support is given. We have only one underpass in the city. Every street car, further stated Mayor Sims, "has to touch Peachtree street, and there is no wonder that the property value there is so great; but while this section flourishes there are other sections which suffer, and new life must be put into the east side of the business section, in order for Atlanta to grow, for it is impossible for a section to grow when the traffic is entirely cut off."

"The next thing we must do, after having obtained the consent of the property owners, is to obtain the consent of the state, and we realize it is no easy task. It is going to require work and I have come to your organization to ask you to help make a greater and bigger Atlanta, one which our forefathers would be proud to own. When we think of the growth and progress of the city in the past few years, we marvel at how we have managed with the present traffic conditions."

"It is my greatest hope to build a most beautiful municipal building in Atlanta when the Beeler plan has been realized, a thing that could be done without any additional cost to the city whatsoever by the sale of the present building. Much depends on this to revive the business in that section of the city. We must act this year on account of the session of the legislature, in order not to have a great delay." In conclusion Mayor Sims made an earnest appeal to the women to get in touch with the situation and adopt the slogan, "Let's go, Atlanta."

Mrs. George Ober, chairman of the resolutions committee of the club, offered the following resolution, following Mayor Sims' address, which was unanimously adopted by the club: Whereas, our city as a manufacturing, industrial and distributing center, demands improved facilities for quick transportation for the advancement of large business enterprises, and Whereas, it is generally conceded that viaducts, over the congested traffic arteries, would relieve congested traffic conditions, and Whereas, these viaducts were recommended by the Beeler experts to meet the demands of Greater Atlanta, and Whereas, the honorable Mayor Walter A. Sims has inaugurated a campaign for the construction of these viaducts, Therefore be it,

Resolved, That the Atlanta Woman's club indorses the campaign of Mayor Sims for the construction of these viaducts and pledges its hearty cooperation and active support in the furtherance of this great movement, and be it further Resolved, That the Fulton and DeKalb county representatives in the general assembly be requested to sponsor this necessary legislation. (Signed) MRS. NORMAN SHARP, MRS. GEORGE S. OBER, JR., MRS. D. F. STEVENSON, MRS. JOHN R. HOLMANSKY.

Mrs. W. R. Price-Smith offered the following resolution which was also accepted by the club: "Be it resolved that the Atlanta Woman's club indorse the splendid work of the Georgia Forestry association and pledge its support and cooperation for the legislative program and the observance of American Forest week, April 27 to May 3."

Resolutions of condolence on the death of Mrs. R. M. Striplin, beloved and valued member of the Woman's club, were read and adopted by the club.

Mrs. Hinman's Program.
Following the business hour and Mayor Sims' address, Mrs. George B. Hinman, chairman of the fine arts department of the club, gave a beautiful program which correlated the three fine arts, music, art and literature.

In the lovely interpretation of music, Mrs. Mary Trousdale, well known professional violinist, was heard in the beautiful "Ave Maria," by Schubert, the broad legato of the melody rising clear and sweet above the arpeggio accompaniment. Miss Edith Moore in her beautiful lyric voice of exquisite clearness was also heard in song, Miss Moore gave Mohr's song, which correlated the three fine arts, music, art and literature.

Living tableaux were artistically arranged by Mrs. James R. Little, as representing art and depicting the famous paintings and statues of the great artists. Posing in these tableaux were Misses Virginia Stark, Elizabeth Little, Joe Bennett, Pearl Hammond, Cara Hinman, Guy Swagerty, Hersh Potter-Spiker and Newton Craig.

Mrs. W. F. Melton, chairman of literature, introduced Mrs. R. S. Morrow, author of the prize story "April's," who read the story in a very interesting way and delighted the audience with the charming little story. George A. Hinman gave two very delightful readings also. A selection from Browning, given to improvised music, was the first and the second a dramatic story from Kipling's jungle tales, both proving exceedingly entertaining and well rendered.

The entire program was especially delightful and Mrs. Hinman and her divisional chairmen, Mrs. Melton, Mrs. Little and Mrs. O. Clemons, deserve much credit for the charming entertainment, which will dwell in the minds of the members and friends as one of the outstanding programs of the entire season.

MEMORIAL GATEWAY DEDICATED TO PERRY
Port of Spain, Trinidad, April 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—In the presence of 10,000 persons the memorial gate in honor of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, hero of the battle of Lake Erie in 1813 was dedicated here today with appropriate naval, military and civic ceremonies.

The golden key to the gate was handed by Captain H. H. Lackey, of the United States cruiser Memphis, sent here by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur for the occasion. The key was handed to the ship's band and a detachment of the local forces of this British colonial possession took part in the exercises.

Commodore Perry, who died on an American warship here in 1819, was buried ashore and the gateway dedicated today stands at the entrance to Laperous cemetery in which his body lay until it was removed to the United States in 1826 and buried at Newport, R. I.

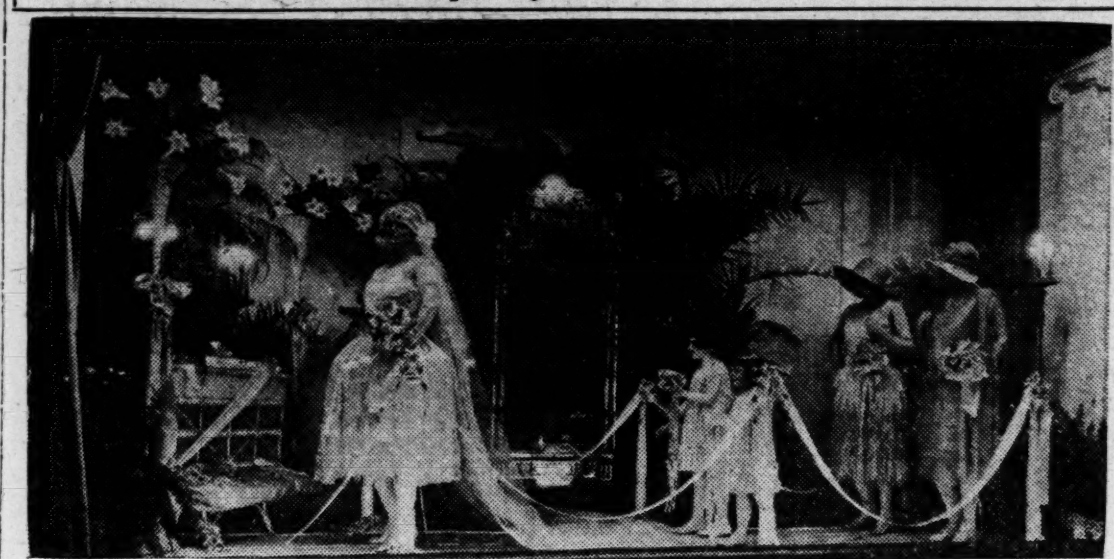

H. D. Baker, American consul at Trinidad, in an address referred to Perry as "a heroic descendant of that stock of the mother country, prolific in traditions of patriotic service, manly chivalry and devotion to duty. He paid tribute to the Americans in Trinidad, who presented to the gate to the cemetery not only a memorial to the American naval hero, but as 'their token of appreciation, even one hundred years after his sad funeral of the chivalrous sentiments which inspired the people of Port-of-Spain to do their utmost to express sympathy over his death.'

He referred also to the fact that the navy department in Washington had shown it did not forget, with the decades that had past, one of its officers who had rendered such illustrious service and had sent the cruiser Memphis and the submarine V-1 for participation in the ceremonies at the gate.

A dispatch from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, appropriate to the occasion, was read, and the mayor of the city spoke in reply to this and the address of Consul Baker.

The gateway is of iron with supporting pillars on each of which is a bronze tablet, one bearing Perry's

The Love Cycle

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

The Captive.
Peering through the gloom of the snow-filled night, young Mansfield discovered that the small light burden in his arms was a girl.
He started on her feet with a hasty apology.
"I say, I am awfully sorry. Did I hurt you much? The snow blinded me, you see."
She was adjusting her "tam," which had been knocked away by the collision but she looked up at him, her dark lashes beaded with snow flakes.
"It was my fault, really, I wasn't looking where I was going."
"Why it's Jane Marlowe," exclaimed Hal in amazement. "Look here, what are you doing out so late alone in this part of town?"

"I've been to the library to get some books," she looked down ruefully at the slushy sidewalk.
Several volumes were scattered there and Hal bent to pick them up hastily.
"I hope they are not ruined. See, this one is fading, you'd better come back to the office with me—it's only a step or two—and I'll wrap it up for you in a piece of paper. Then I'll call a cab and take you home."
Jane laughed. Her laugh had a startling quality, was clear and silver sweet as a bell, though snow-flecked air. Hal thought he had never heard a laugh quite like it.

"That's ridiculous, and not at all necessary," Jane said. "I mean about taking me home. I love to walk in the snow and I'm used to being out after dark alone, but you may mark my books, if you will be so kind."
But took her elbow and walked her down the dark wet street. She seemed very small beside his stalwart strength. He wondered to himself why Mr. Marlowe let such a child run about the streets alone.
But in the brightly lighted office, his reflections received a jolt. For looking down at Jane, he was reminded no longer a child but a disturbingly attractive young girl.

The cold had put a bit of crimson into her olive cheeks. Her eyes gleamed yellow in the gas light under the mysterious shadow of her dark lashes. The chestnut hair that escaped from her pretty little "tam" was now streaked with snow and lay thick on her tightly buttoned, little fur jacket. It gave a glittering, unreal effect which harmonized pleasantly with her dark beauty.

Last words: "Few people have greater inducements to make them wish to live than I, but I am ready to go if it pleases the Almighty to take me; the debt to nature must be paid." The other tablet bears the facts of Perry's death and burial and the circumstances of the presentation of the gate by Americans in Trinidad in appreciation of the chivalrous kindness shown by the people of Port-of-Spain and expressed the hope "that peace and good will between the United States and the British empire may forever endure."

RUM ROW AGENTS HELD IN BRIBE CONSPIRACY

New York, April 13.—Two alleged agents of "rum row" were held in $2,500 bond for grand jury action by Federal Commissioner Rasquin in Brooklyn today, on a charge of violation of the prohibition act. At the same time police began a search for two others, supposedly their confederates in a conspiracy—which failed—to bribe coast guard officers to help liquor from rum row in a government boat and smuggle it to bootleggers ashore.

The men gave their names to the commissioners as Harry Murphy and J. C. Maloney, both of Manhattan.
Officers on the patrol boat pretended to accept the offer, they said to the two men guided to a patrol boat to the supply ship, the name of which was withheld. Whisky and champagne worth from $100,000 to $150,000 were taken aboard. When the patrol boat reached the barge office basin yesterday it was placed under heavy guard and its crew held aboard. This action was taken, it was explained, to guard the contraband liquor and to prevent outsiders from communicating with any one aboard.
Captain E. V. Jacobs, commandant of the New York coast guard division, said there had been repeated efforts by rum runner agents to bribe the coast guard patrol.

Captain Jacobs said the supply ship from which the liquor was taken flies the British flag. This ship apparently learned of the capture of the coast guard picket boats and put out for the high seas, he said. Coast guard vessels which went to rum row yesterday intending to capture the supply ship found it missing.

Captain Jacobs said that several days ago a man approached an officer of one of the coast guard picket boats and asked if he would bring a load of liquor from a supply ship to a certain place ashore. This was reported to Captain J. J. Bryan, a base commander, who directed selected subordinates to pretend acceptance and afterwards bring in the agents and liquor.

The patrol boat started for rum row Thursday and in accordance with the plan picked up the two agents, who are now under arrest, from a motor boat in Ambrose channel. It was too rough that night to land the agents on the supply ship, but Tuesday night they were placed aboard and Saturday the agents had 300 cases of whisky and champagne loaded on the patrol boat.

Elwood H. Inventor of Auto, Dies of Influenza

Kokomo, Ind., April 13.—Elwood Haynes, pioneer automobile builder, died at his home here Monday evening as a result of heart disorders which developed following an attack of influenza. He was 67 years old.
The manufacturer had been confined to his home since his return from a trip to Washington, D. C., and southern cities several days ago. His widow and two children, March Haynes and Mrs. Glenn Hills, both of this city, survive him. Haynes was born at Portland, Ind., in 1857. In the early nineties he began his experiments in gasoline propelled vehicles, and what is said to have been the first successful gasoline automobile was operated on the streets of Kokomo, on July 4, 1894. This car has been placed in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C. Later he engaged in the commercial manufacture of cars, and operated a large plant here.

METHODISTS OF PERRY OPPOSE UNIFICATION

Perry, Ga., April 12.—(Special.)—When unification was voted on here Sunday by the Methodist church, the result was only four for the merger, and the remainder of the membership, about 200 against it.
L. F. Cater, S. A. Nunn and Ogletree, were delegates elected to the conference to be held at Marshallville.

Varga expected to bring his intended bride to this country, and marry her in South Bend, but the immigration laws are such that he was unable to obtain a permit for the woman to enter the country.
He believes that through his marriage yesterday he can induce the immigration authorities to pass her into the United States.

PRINCE OF WALES SEES POLO GAME ON GOLD COAST

Accra, Gold Coast, West Africa, April 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—After a busy Sunday the Prince of Wales started another day of ceremonies by receiving an address from the legislative council, which was read by the senior African member of the body. This member later presented the prince a huge elephant tusk.

Having received the Gold Coast legislators, the prince went to the polo grounds, where crowds had gathered since dawn for the royal reception of native chiefs from the central province of the colony. The road was packed with masses of black humanity selling welcome to the royal visitor, while the polo ground itself presented a rare picture of tropical color with forty chiefs and their retinues grouped in a great semi-circle under gorgeous canopies with a background of trees and the sea.

WOMEN ATTEND CHURCH SANS EASTER BONNETS

Cottage Grove, Ore., April 13.—Women of the Christian church here attended Easter services yesterday without hats. They left their new Easter bonnets at home to disprove assertions of male members of the church that the principal reason they went to church was to display their new millinery creations.

Five minutes later, when Hal, unwilling and disturbed over Jane's persistent refusal to accompany them, found himself rolling homeward in the Weston's warm carriage, with Helen by his side, he realized for the first time the shackles were closing slowly about him, that he could almost hear the clank of chains about his ankles.

MELLON ASKED TO URGE AUTO TAX REDUCTION

Washington, April 13.—An appeal to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to urge reduction of automobile taxes was made Monday by leaders of the industry in the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, but it was said at the treasury afterwards that Mellon did not believe this would increase the sale of cars.

In their statement to Mellon, the automobile men said that an automatic price reduction of 5 per cent, averaging $31 a car, would follow repeal of "the present discriminatory tax on the treasury afterwards that Mellon is in favor of reducing taxes wherever possible, it was explained at the treasury after the conference. He does not believe, however, that reducing the tax on automobiles would increase the sale of cars. If a person wanted to buy a car, it was said, a matter of $31 would not deter him.

Special taxes now paid by motorists amount to more than $300,000,000 a year, over and above personal property and taxes on business income and general taxes, Mellon was said.

The prediction of Senator Curtis, of Kansas, that taxes would be cut $500,000,000 by the new congress are regarded with skepticism by Mellon. Treasury estimates have not provided for so large a cut, it was said Monday, but have been based on an estimate of $180,000,000 for the present fiscal year and $273,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1926. However, tax collections this year may exceed expectations, it was pointed out, and a greater reduction may be possible.

Man, Crazy by Germ Poisoning Case, Fires Home, Battles Police

Chicago, April 13.—Suffering from a belief that "someone connected with the McClinton case" had been secretly feeding him typhoid fever germs, Rudolph Vivian, a tailor, drove his wife and three children to the street Monday and set fire to his home.

He then barricaded the burning house, and stationed himself in an upstairs window armed with a revolver. Police and firemen broke down the barricades and overpowered the man.

LAMONT IS RETICENT ON BUSINESS IN ITALY

Rome, April 13.—Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., in Rome on a visit over the Easter holidays, is reticent in regard to his recent interviews with Premier Mussolini, Finance Minister De Stefani and Minister of the Interior Federzoni. In political and financial circles, however, it is believed he expressed that his purpose is to learn the real facts regarding Italian finances, the labor situation and the prospects of Italy's economic future. The fact that he has had several interviews with the finance minister is especially commented upon as possibly connected with some financing project.

UNDEFINED SUBSTANCE FOUND IN OLSON'S BODY

Chicago, April 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—An undefined substance which will be tested for poisonous properties has been found in the organs of Dr. Oscar Olson, it was learned today. The discovery delayed the report, which has been expected today, of an analysis made of the organs by Coroner's Chemist William D. McNally.

Dr. McNally will conduct experiments to ascertain what the reactions of a vital organism would be to the newly-discovered substance, and whether the substance is poisonous. It is expected that these experiments will consume several days.

Dr. Olson's body was exhumed after the question concerning circumstances concerning his death three years ago, has been raised at the McClintock inquest. Dr. Olson had been physician of the late William Nelson McClintock and a childhood friend of his deceased mother, Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock. His death is one of the number which have been connected with the tragic history of the McClintock fortune.

Although mercury was reported to have been found in the organs some time ago, it has not been made clear that this was not part of normal dosage of medicine said to have been self-administered by the doctor.

RATES INCREASED BY HUGE THEFTS

New York, April 13.—Thieves have caused burglary insurance companies to increase their radio insurance rates 180 per cent. Officers of the burglary department of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters today announced that increased premiums on radio burglary insurance would be put into effect immediately.

Where the rate heretofore was $17.50 on each $1,000 of insurance, it hereafter will be $30, they said. This makes the radio rate as high as on furs, which was recently reported after a series of big fur robberies and about New York. It is estimated that more than $1,000,000 worth of stolen radio equipment is at large in New York city alone.

SUICIDE OF STUDENT DUE TO ILL HEALTH

Washington, April 13.—A verdict of "suicide because of despondency due to ill health" was returned by a coroner's jury today following an inquest into the death yesterday of Robert Preston, Northwestern university student.

Preston's body was recovered from Lake Michigan by fishermen, with a bullet wound in the forehead, the body weighted down by a brief case containing iron, and three diaries of the youth.

Oratorical Contest Winners To Get Free Opera Tickets Beside Constitution Prizes

State Contest Will Be Held in Atlanta on April 23 — Governor Walker To Preside.

Victims for the performance of "The Metropolitan Opera" on Friday night, April 24, will be the two prize winners in the oratorical contest to be held here on April 23. These tickets will be in addition to the cash prizes of $100 and $200 offered by The Constitution, and are given to the prize winners by H. C. Thorburn, president of Karnak, Inc.

Mr. Thorburn, in a letter sent to this paper Monday, states that his attention has been drawn to the oratorical contest among the high-school students of Georgia, conducted in this state by The Constitution and the State High School association, and that he regards it as very close to the top among movements for the future welfare of our people.

Reason for Offer.

He says that he is constrained to offer the grand opera tickets to the prize winners "simply through my desire to have some part, however small, in the wonderful thing you are doing for the coming generation of our citizens."

Contestants in the state contest will number twelve, being the winners in twelve district contests held in the different congressional districts of the state last week. The state champion, to be decided at the meet in Atlanta next week, will give a recital at the zone contest to be held at Nashville, Tenn., on May 1. In this zone, in addition to Georgia, are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee.

For the purposes of the contest the country has been divided into seven zones, and the seven winners will go to Washington, D. C., for the national finals to be held there on May 8. The national contest is sponsored by the American Bar association, and in addition to the national championship, seven prizes, ranging from $2,000 to $300, will be awarded.

At the state contest in Atlanta on Thursday, April 23, Governor Clifford Walker will preside. It will be held in the house of representatives at the state capitol, and three members of the state supreme court will be the judges. The three are Associate Justices.

POTASSIUM CHLORATE TARIFF DUTY RAISED WEEVIL MENACE ALARM SOUNDED

Washington, April 13.—An increase in the tariff duty on potassium chlorate from 1 1/2 cents to 2 1/4 cents a pound was ordered today by President Coolidge.

The president acted under the flexible provisions of the tariff act which authorizes him to change rates to a maximum of 50 per cent—the increase granted in this case.

A unanimous report recommending a higher duty was submitted by the tariff commission, which held the increase was needed to equalize the cost of production in the United States with that in Germany, the principal competing country.

The product is used in the manufacture of matches and fireworks, as an oxidizing agent in cloth printing and also as a medicant.

Hardwood Timber Mill To Cut 25,000 Feet Daily To Establish at Tifton

Tifton, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) A corporation known as the Tifton Hardwood company is being organized here for the operation of a circular sawmill of 25,000 feet daily capacity. The business of the company will be the manufacture and wholesale distribution of hardwood lumber.

The organizers of the company are: Frank of the Southern Lumber and Manufacturing company, and C. B. Benedict, of the Ransom-Benedict company, both of Nashville, Tenn., and W. C. Kautz, of Savannah.

A 9-acre tract for the mill site has been purchased and it is estimated that the mill will be in operation in six weeks. Popular and express timber will be cut at the mill, and there is enough of this timber now in sight to keep the mill running for four or five years. Timber will be purchased throughout this section and will be hauled to Tifton by rail and truck. Mr. Benedict stated that only the good roads we have in this section makes it possible for the mill to be placed in operation here.

The mill will employ about 50 hands besides those engaged in cutting and hauling the timber.

Allied Restrictions May Force Zeppelins To Go to Switzerland

London, April 13.—The Zeppelin company is seeking to escape the allied restrictions on the construction of giant gas bags by removing its plant from Germany to Switzerland, according to a dispatch from Geneva.

The company is reported to have requested the Swiss government's permission to move the entire works from Friedrichshafen across Lake Constance to the Swiss shore. Zeppelin officials seem confident that permission will be granted. Agents already have inspected possible sites for the plant on Swiss soil.

There is some speculation here as to the allied course in the event the transfer were made. There would be but the breadth of a comparatively narrow lake separating the Zeppelin works from Germany, and on Swiss soil no limit could be imposed on the plant's operations.

Waycross Real Estate Is Active

Waycross, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—More than the usual activity has been noticed in Waycross real estate circles during the past few days. A condensed report of real estate sales reported by several prominent real estate firms in the city shows that there have been 18 sales recently.

These sales include all forms of real estate, from residence lots, dwelling and business houses. The majority of the transactions however are for residences.

Flagler Estate.

New York, April 13.—The estate of John Halland Flagler, capitalist and steel magnate, who died September 8, 1922, was appraised today by the state tax bureau at $2,689,667. A large part of the estate was bequeathed to the Alice Mendelick Flagler foundation and to three New York hospitals.

PAPERS FILE BRIEFS ON TAX PUBLICITY

Washington, April 13.—The Kansas City Journal Post and the Baltimore Post filed in the supreme court separate briefs in the appeals brought by the government to punish then for publishing income tax lists made public by direction of congress.

The cases will be reached for argument this week.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, as counsel for the Kansas City newspaper, declared in his brief that "the constitution of the government is that as to liberty of speech and of the press we gained nothing by the revolution. If that contention be true," he said, "then the revolution was a failure and the adoption of the constitution was a solemn farce. We dissent entirely from that view."

Declaring that the right of free speech and the freedom of the press is vigorously challenged by the government, Senator Reed urged the court "to lay down in no uncertain terms a clear, comprehensive and unequivocal construction of those rights as they are guaranteed by the first amendment to the constitution."

Former Secretary of War Baker, filed a brief as counsel for the Baltimore Post, asserting that the suggestion by the government "that there is

'HE-MAN' SLIPPING OUT OF PICTURE, DR. SHAW CLAIMS

New York, April 13.—The "he-man" is slipping out of the picture and men are adopting feminized ways just as rapidly as women are becoming masculinized in their outlook on life, Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, of New York university, said in a discussion of the social problems evolved because of the emancipation of women.

"It is the man in his new effeminacy who is inclined to be domestic," Dr. Shaw said. "Modern men marry for the sake of a home with its dog and radio set, while women approach the wedded state with the idea of getting a companion or a lover."

VALET DECLARES HE SLEW ACTRESS IN JEALOUS FIT

London, April 13.—A sorry story of fatal jealousy was told in police court today when Ernest Rhodes, 18-year-old valet, appeared to answer a charge of murdering Grace Blakelock, pretty 16-year-old actress and dancing instructor, who died Friday from the effects of a slash in the throat the night previous in West Kensington district. A statement was read into the record alleged to have been made by Rhodes to the police, admitting he had cut the girl's throat with a razor. The fatal act, as recorded in the statement, was committed impulsively in a fit of jealousy as he was bidding the young dancer goodnight outside her home on their return from a motion picture theater and she chafed about other boys she might see during the Easter holidays. Rhodes said he was not aware he had slashed the girl fatally as she ran to her mother's home nearby after the cutting, and he did not know she was dead until two days later when he read the news in the papers. He then surrendered to the police. Rhodes was remanded for a week.

Unlike Any Story You Have Ever Read

The Lost World

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

SYNOPSIS. Malone, a London newspaper reporter, is sent to interview a dangerous assassin, and is sent to interview Professor Challenger, who has recently returned from South America with a story which no one believes, of the existence there of prehistoric animals. By way of proof he shows Malone a sketch of a dinosaur, which he had found among the possessions of a dead engineer, Mr. Dr. Winton, some photographs, and a piece of the wing of a pterodactyl. At a scientific lecture that night Challenger calls for volunteers for an expedition to test the truth of his assertions. This one finger moving the young Malone finds himself a member of a party of three setting out for South America. The other two are Professor Summerlee, scientist, and Lord John Roxton, well-known explorer. A Mañana, Challenger unexpectedly joins the expedition. After ten days of traveling up the Amazon and one of its tributaries they are forced to abandon the boat and take to the forest. At this point they say goodbye to civilization and disappear into the unknown.

CHAPTER VIII.

"The Outlying Pickets of the New World."

Our friends at home may well rejoice with us, for we are at a point, at least, we have shown that the statement of Professor Challenger can be verified. We have not, it is true, ascended the plateau, but it lies before us, and even Professor Summerlee, in a more chastened mood. Not that he will for an instant admit that his rival could be right, but he is less persistent in his incoherent objections and has sunk for the most part into an observant silence. I must hark back, however, and continue my narrative from where I dropped it. We are sending home one of our local Indians who was injured, and I am committing this letter to his charge, with considerable doubts in my mind as to whether it will ever come to hand.

When I wrote last we were about to leave the Indian village where we had been denuded by the Esmeraldas. I have to begin my report by old news, for the first serious personal trouble (I pass over the incessant bickerings between the professors) occurred this evening, and might have had a tragic ending. I have spoken of our English-speaking half-breed, Gomez—a fine worker and a willing fellow, but afflicted I fancy with the mania of curiosity, which is common enough among such men. On the last evening he seems to have had himself near the river, in which we were discussing our plans, and, being observed by our huge negro Zambos, who is as faithful as a dog and has the hatred which all race-bred dogs have for the half-breeds, he was dragged out and carried into our presence. Gomez whipped out his knife, however, and for the huge strength of his captor, which enabled him to disarm him with one hand, he would certainly have stabbed him. The matter has ended in a reprimand, the opponents have been compelled to shake hands, and there is every hope that all will be well. As to the friends of the two learned men, they are continuous and bitter. It must be admitted that Challenger is provocative to the last degree, but Summerlee has an acid tongue, which makes matters worse. Last night Challenger said that he never cared to walk on the Thames embankment and look up the river, as it was always sad to see some of his own eventual goal. To be convinced, of course, that he is destined for Westminster Abbey. Summerlee rejoined, however, with a sour smile, by saying that he understood that Milbank prison had been pulled down. Challenger's conceit is too colossal to allow him to be really annoyed. He only smiled in his beard and repeated, "Really? Really?" The meaning of this would use to a child. Indeed, they are children both—the one wizened and cantankerous, the other formidable and overbearing, yet each with a brain which has put him in the front rank of his scientific age. Brain, character, soul—only one sees more of life does one understand how distant is each.

The very next day we did actually make our start upon this remarkable expedition. We found that all our possessions fitted very easily into the two canoes, and we divided our personnel, six in each, taking the obvious precaution in the interests of peace of putting one professor into each canoe. Personally, I was with Challenger, who was in a beatific humor, moving about as one in a silent ecstasy and beaming benevolence from every feature. I have had some experience of him in other moods, however, and shall be the less surprised when the thunderstorms suddenly come up amidst the sunshine. It is impossible to be at your ease, it is equally impossible to be dull in his company, for one is always in a state of half-tremulous doubt as to what sudden turn his formidable temper may take.

For two days we made our way up a good-sized river, some hundreds of yards broad, and dark in color, but transparent, so that one could usually see the bottom. The affluents of the Amazon are half of them, of this nature, while the other half are whitish and opaque, the difference depending upon the class of country through which they have flowed. The dark indicate vegetable decay, while the others point to clayey soil. Twice we came upon rapids, and in each case made a portage half a mile or so to avoid them. The woods on either side were primeval, which are more easily penetrated than woods of second growth, and we had no great difficulty in carrying our canoes through them. How shall I ever forget the solemn mastery of it? The height of the trees and the thickness of the boles exceeded anything which I in my town-bred life could have imagined, shooting upwards in magnificent columns until, at an enormous distance above our heads, we could dimly discern the spot where they threw out their side branches into Gothic upward curves which coalesced to form one great matted roof of verdure, through which only an occasional golden ray of sunshine shot downwards to trace a thin dazling line of light amidst the majestic obscurity. As we walked noiselessly amid the thick, soft carpet of decaying vegetation the hush fell upon our souls which comes upon us in the twilight of the Abbey, and even Professor Challenger's full-chested notes sank to a whisper. Alone, I should have been ignorant of the names of these giant growths, but our men of science pointed out the cedars, the great silk cotton trees, and the red-wood trees, with all that profusion of various plants which has made this continent the chief supplier to the human race of those gifts at nature which depend upon the vegetable world, while it is the most backward in those products which come from animal life. Vivid orchids and wonderful colored lichens smoldered upon the swartly tree-trunks and where a wandering shaft of light fell upon the golden allamanda, the scarlet star-clusters of the racoon, or the rich deep blue of the effect was as a dream of fairyland. In these great wastes of forest, life, which abhors darkness, struggles ever upwards to the light. Every plant, even the smaller ones, curl and writhes to the green surface, twining itself round its stronger and taller brethren in the effort. Climbing plants are monstrous and luxuriant, but others which have never been known to climb elsewhere learn the art as an escape from that somber shadow, up that common nettle, the yucca, and even the jacaranda palm tree can be seen circling the stems of the cedars and striving to reach their crowns. Of animal life there was no movement amid the majestic vaulted spaces which stretched from us as we walked, but a constant movement far above our heads told of that multitudinous world of snake and monkey, bird and sloth, which lived in the sunshine, and looked down in wonder at our tiny, dark, stumbling figures in the obscure depths immeasurably below them. At dawn and sunset the howler monkeys screamed together and the parakeets broke into shrill chatter, but during the hot hours of the day only the full drone of the insects, like the beat of a distant surf, filled the air, while nothing moved amid the solemn vistas of stupendous trunks, fading away into the darkness which held us in. Once some bandy-legged, lurching creature, an ant-eater or a bear, scuttled clumsily amid the shadows. It was the only sign of earth life which I saw in the great Amazonian forest.

BITS OF N. Y. LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

(Published by arrangement with First National Pictures, Inc., and Waterson R. Rothacker.)

New York.—There is an old Chinese in Pell street who sits in his little shop window from noon until China town's bustle simmers down to vagrant whispers. He seems carved—an expressionless Buddha with unwinking eyes. He is said to be past 90.

In all the 30 years he has been down there he has never been known to leave his shop. He knows nothing of the New York about him. His world is encompassed in what he sees while perched upon his stool. He has a white wife who is seen now and then.

She is a pallid creature with lifeless peroxide streaked hair and the filmy gaze of the opium addict. He seems not to notice her self-glossy presence. There is a legend in Chinatown that his shop is merely a mignon gesture.

He takes no interest in disposing of the wares on his shelf—dried fins, punk-sticks, punk-sticks, and packages of tea. The story goes that he is a human devil chaser and that superstitious Chinese pay him fees to keep evil spirits away from them.

I visited his shop while in the quarter to talk to him. But he would not talk and was annoyed in his piping voice said: "You no buy, go away! No talker." I went over to see Hong Lee, the printer, who often tells of Chinatown characters. But he refused to discuss this ancient.

At the mention of his name Chinatown closes up. Another thing to be noticed in Chinatown lately is the lack of business in the restaurants. The invasion of Chinese restaurants uptown has evidently caused a great loss of patronage.

Broadway now has a dozen gilded chop suey caravansaries. The Palais Royal has gone over to Chinese food. So has old Churchill's. They are caudal affairs with jazz bands and huge dance floors and somehow lack the atmosphere that Chinatown gives to them.

places like Churchill's left on Broadway. It was the late afternoon rendezvous for the town wits, bon vivants, cartoonists, writers and playwrights. He was the open-handed hospitality of the small town landlord.

Pathetic old age touches me as nothing else does. There is an itinerant old knife-grinder often seen in mid-town. He wears steel spectacles and is half blind and stooped. I saw him one day on one of those brownstone front stoops with his head cupped in his hands and there was a mist in his eyes. "I try so hard," he said, "but nobody seems to want me." That is the fate of the old who are penniless. Nobody wants them.

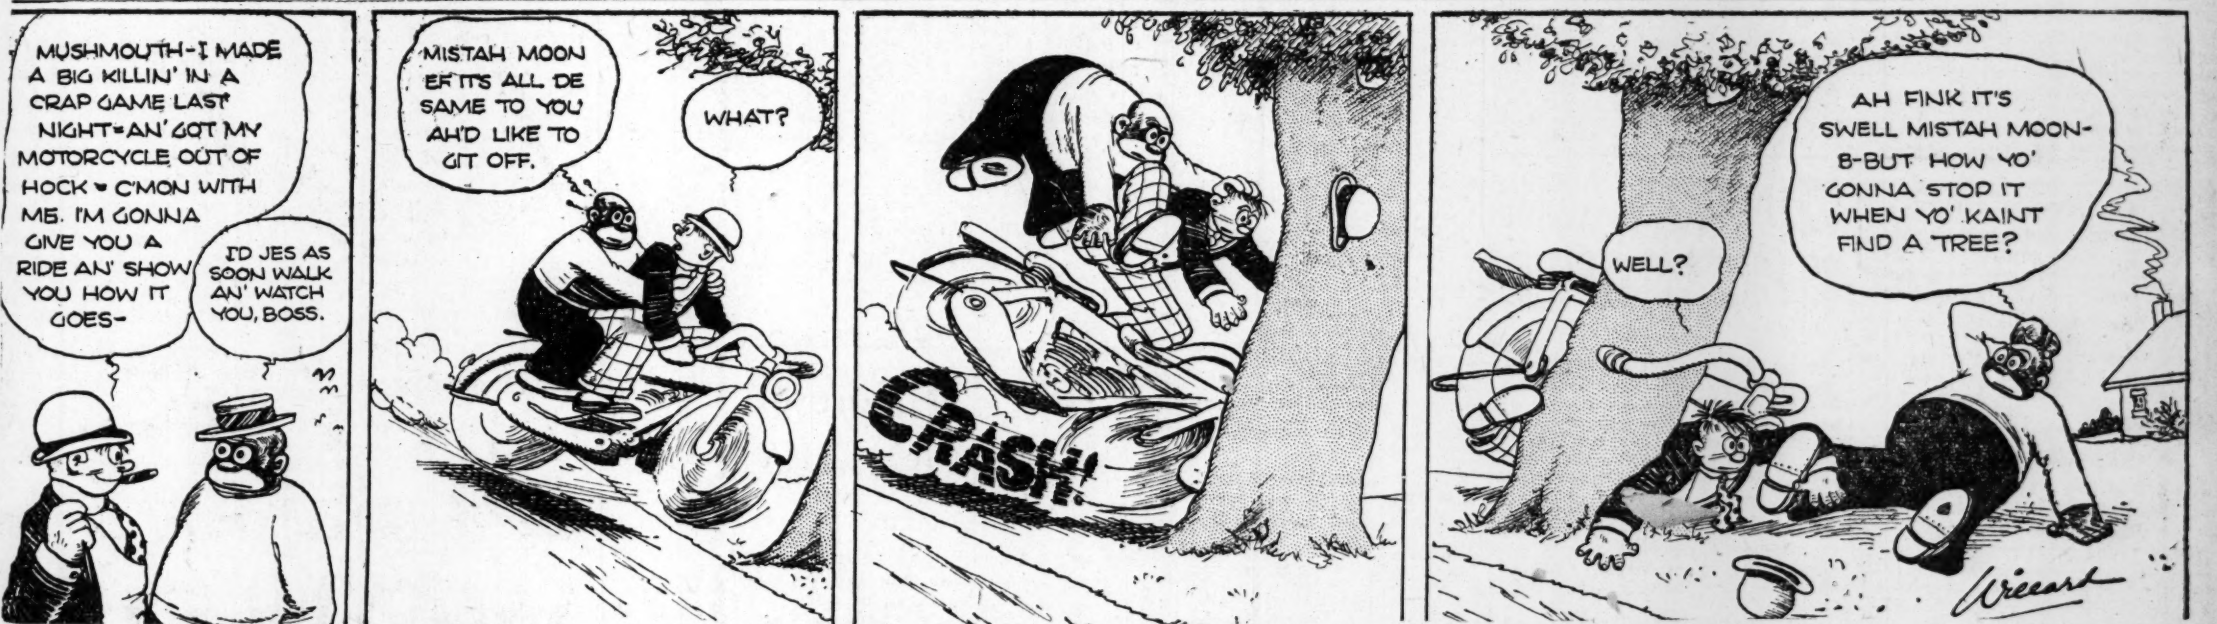

Spring has come to Fifth avenue. Lavender Joe, with his sat of sweet lavender has taken up his stand near St. Thomas's. The shy old fellow in shiny blue serge who sells the pink herbribbed white puppies is in front of the library. And the chestnut vendors, with their charcoal pots, have scattered to the four winds. (Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)
